ORBITER IN TROUBLE

Photos Losing Quality

. . . FROM MOON

Pasadena, Calif. (AP) — America's Lunar Orbiter ran into serious trouble Friday in the second and third frames of pictures it snapped of a broad plain at the far right edge of the moon.

Clifford Nelson, mission project manager, said "there appears to be some degradation in the high resolution pictures in two of the first three frames."

Other Excellent

Pictures from the other frame were excellent and showed craters and high ridges in sharp detail.

The spacecraft snapped 20 twin picture frames on its 26th orbit early Friday. Some five hours later, on the 27th orbit, it began playing back the first three frames in reverse order.

The first two transmissions of frames No. 2 and No. 3 were blurred and showed little detail. The third transmission was far superior.

Serious Impact

"If the problem is permanent it will have a serious impact on the mission," Nelson said. "We would have to refly the mission to get the high-resolution pictures we need of the sites chosen as possible landing areas for Apollo astronauts."

The high-resolution pictures were designed to show objects as small as a card table.

Each of the frames contains one high-resolution and one medium-resolution photograph.

High Resolution

Nelson said the problem was in the high resolution pictures in the second and third frames, which were the first to be transmitted by Lunar Orbiter.

He said it could lie in the film, or in the high-resolution lens, or in the high-resolution shutter.

"There is no thought now that the trouble lies in ground conversion," Nelson said.

Blamed Equipment

He earlier had blamed this equipment rather than the spacecraft.

Asked why technicians had told him earlier in the day that the pictures actually being received from the spacecraft were excellent, Nelson said: "I can only assume that they were looking at the medium-resolution, and not the high-resolution photographs.

The third transmission's included the edge of a huge crater, possibly one mile across. Another contained long straight grooves, possibly a crack on the lunar surface partially filled with rubble.

AAU Championships Keep Hotels And Motels Packed

Between entrants, coaches and officials, families and spectators here for the National AAU Swimming and Diving Championships and Shrine Bowl reservations, hotel and motel accommodations will be scarce in the Capital City over the weekend.

Even though the airlines strike caused cancellations by several AAU entrants unable to get to Lincoln, meet officials said some 1,800 persons would be here in connection with the swimming and diving event.

A special Lincoln Chamber of Commerce housing bureau placed entrants, coaches, families and officials in some 800 accommodations, including whole motels, according to meet director Wendell Groth.

Most of the officials were housed at the Nebraska Center hotel, AAU headquarters for the affair. The youth wing dormitory which can accommodate 400 also was used for entrants and others.

The housing bureau also used the Lincoln School of Commerce Nettleton Manor dormitory for about 150 participants.

The Santa Clara, Calif. team coached by George Haines reserved a complete motel.

According to Groth, a few of the entrants were assigned to private homes.

Of those who handled reservations for their own living quarters during the event, several were reported to be camping in the Interstate park.

Chamber public relations director Bob Steuwig indicated that the majority of the divers arrived last Thursday and Friday and most of the swimmers came to Lincoln by Sunday. The meet, which Groth said opened with 769 entrants, continues through Sunday evening.

The parents of the four-time Olympic medal winner Don Schollander, asked the housing bureau to accommodate them near their son since this is the only time this year they will be able to see him, Steuwig said.

Other families who followed their children to the meet made similar requests, he added.

Praising the cooperation of hotel and motel managers in handling the AAU crowds along with their other patrons, Steuwig also lauded Lincoln restaurants who are providing special foods for the swimmers and divers and maintaining special dining hours.

Youthful Trio Debates Vote For 18-Year-Olds

By JOHN DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

An hour-long discussion among a trio of 18-year-old would-be voters at the Nebraska Center Thursday night gave a preview of the pressure Nebraska law makers are going to have put on them to allow 18-year-olds to vote.

Arguments for and against allowing the 18-year-old to put his vote in the ballot box were raised by young men and women attending a debate as part of the 1966 Nebraska Conference of Youth.

Three Lincoln students, Richard Crees, 18, John Schrekinger, 17, both of Lincoln High School, and Fred Schmidt, 20, of the University of Nebraska handled the speaking chores.

Several nations already allow persons to vote under the age of 21. These include Israel, the U.S.S.R. and Brazil. In the United States, Georgia has allowed the 18-year-olds to vote since 1943, while Kentucky has permitted 18-year-olds to vote for over ten years. Hawaii gives voting rights at age 19.

No Ill Effects

In those countries and states where 18-year-olds have been allowed to vote, no ill effects have been noted from allowing the younger men and women to vote, the students argued.

The young men pointed out that all of the last four presidents endorsed the principle of allowing the 18-year-old voter. Further, there is no constitutional limitation on allowing persons under the age of 21 to vote.

The young persons did admit that persons between the ages of 21 and 30, according to statistical studies, have the poorest voting record.

The old adage about "if you're old enough to fight for your country, then you are old enough to be allowed to vote," was, surprisingly, almost completely rejected by the would-be-voters.

"The qualities which tend to make a good soldier are quite different from those qualities which make a good voter," Richard Crees said. "The 18-year-old is preferred as a soldier because his mind is more easily molded and he is more receptive to blindly taking orders—at least this is one of the reasons traditionally given for drafting the 18-year-old."

Recognized Con

Though it was clear from the start of the discussion that the bulk of the 200 young men and women present favored allowing the 18-year-old to vote, the group did recognize some of the agruments against it.

These included: (1) the 18-year-old does not have the business experience necessary to vote wisely; (2) limited travel experiences in the life of an 18-year-old tend to make them unable to make accurate assessments of world problems which they should know about to vote intelligently; (3) even though high school students are better educated and better informed about world affairs than their predecessors of 25 years ago, the world itself has become so complex that practical experience outside of high school is needed to round the individual's personality to make him a qualified voter.

The young men and women concluded their discussion by stating that the entire answer to whether 18-year-olds should be allowed to vote lies in answering this question: "What does it take to be a good voter?"

If the 18-year-olds have these qualities, then they should be allowed to vote.

IN SENATE . . .

Record Defense Budget Okayed

Washington (AP)—The Senate readily approved Thursday President Johnson's request for a record "peacetime" Defense Department budget. But it also put in bids for a larger say-so in how the vast military machinery is operated.

In voting 86 to 0 for $58 billion to operate the department in the current fiscal year, the Senate boosted administration requests by $525 million but still was $426 million under the total already approved by the House.

These and other differences between the two bills must be reconciled by a conference committee.

In seeking to assert a larger role in military management, the Senate took these actions which either were not requested or were definitely opposed by the administration:

—Voted to give the President authority to call up individual members of the organized Reserves for service in Viet Nam. Under existing law the President can call reserves only after declaring a state of national emergency and then may summon them to the colors only as units.

Not Asked

This authority was not requested by the White House and was not included in the House version of the bill.

—Adopted an amendment barring use of any of the funds provided in the bill for purchase of F111B aircraft being developed for the Navy.

Although no funds are earmarked for such purchases this year, the move sponsored by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., signaled another round in the continuing battle over the TFX all-purpose warplane.

McClellan and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara have feuded for years over McNamara's decision — against the advice of an evaluation panel—to let General Dynamics build this all-services aircraft rather than give the contract to the Boeing Co.

The House version of the bill does not include such a ban and the administration is expected to seek its removal in conference.

—Joined the House in seeking to prevent McNamara from going ahead with plans to merge and cut back the Army's Reserve and National Guard forces. It approved $54 million above Pentagon requests to keep these forces at manpower levels previously authorized by Congress.

Posthumous Honor

Jakarta (UPI)—Ten army generals and senior officers slain by communists during last October's abortive coup were honored posthumously at ceremonies presided over by President Sukarno. The widows of the officers received medals for their husbands, proclaimed national heroes earlier in the year by special presidential decree.

PROTESTER WON—OVER LBJ

Meyer L. Sugarman and his bride, the former Mrs. Gladys Jaffe, smile at their wedding reception Thursday night, as they look forward to spending their honeymoon at Nevele Country Club at Ellenville, N.Y. For a time they had their reservation cancelled, along with 100 others, to accommodate President Johnson who will be staying there Saturday night. But Sugarman wired the White House protesting the loss of the room, and it was restored to the couple.

First MIG Since July Shot Down Near Hanoi

Saigon (AP)—Four U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs tangled with two communist MIG17s in a swirling dogfight 25 miles north of Hanoi Thursday and shot down one of the communist jets in flames, the U.S. command announced Friday.

The downed plane was the 18th MIG kill of the war and the first kill scored by American fliers since July 14. On that day, they show down advanced model MIG 21S. Since then there had been several aerial clashes over North Viet Nam but no MIG kills.

The second MIG broke off and fled, the spokesman said.

In raids over the north Thursday, Navy pilots in A4 Skyhawks hammered the Thanh Hoa rail yards with bombs weighing up to 2,000 pounds.

The spokesman said a roundhouse, four sheds and six boxcars were destroyed and 15 boxcars were damaged.

The rail tracks north of the Thanh Hoa yards were badly damaged. The spokesman said no U.S. losses were reported. Radio Hanoi said two planes were shot down.

In ground fighting, a Vietnamese army spokesman said Vietnamese forces killed 131 enemy troops and suffered only light losses themselves in three separate engagements in the provinces of Quang Tri, Long An and Tay Ninh. U.S. forces reported only very light scattered actions.

A record roundup of enemy troops, ordinarily loath to surrender, was announced by the U.S. command. A report on last week's casualties of both sides said the allies captured 284, more than in any previous week of the war.

The U.S. command announced 101 American servicemen were killed, 593 wounded and 11 missing or captured, against 71 killed, 615 wounded and 10 missing in the previous week. Overall deaths among the allies were 243, against 201 killed in action July 31-Aug. 6.

Heading the list was South Viet Nam's death roll of 128 men.

On the other hand, there was a sharp rise in communist losses.

Briefing officers announced the allies killed 1,436, compared with 649 in the previous week. This was the highest figure recorded since 1,988 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regulars were killed in the week of March 20-26. The record of 284 captured boosted to 4,470 the number of prisoners taken since Jan. 1. That is the equivalent of about half a communist division.

Housework Can Be Safe, Easy For Handicapped

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Homemaking chores for women with physical limitations can be easy and safe, according to Miss Alice Burton, research professor in the University of Nebraska department of home economics.

She demonstrates this in a unique mobile unit co-sponsored by the Nebraska Heart Association which she essentially designed herself.

The one-of-a-kind rehabilitation instruction vehicle, named "Homemaking Unlimited," was planned on the basis of research performed at the University and other schools.

Only One

However, "Homemaking Unlimited" is the only such unit in the United States, according to Miss Burton.

The $16,781 custom-built Condor coach was constructed by the Kelson Manufacturing Co. of El Monte, Calif.

Designed with numerous features for women who must sit to do housework, the mobile unit exhibited at the annual State Home Economics Education Conference here this week contains ideas for kitchens, bathrooms, clothing, child care and nutrition.

A physically limited homemaker cannot change jobs to one better suited to the handicap as perhaps a limited husband could, explained Miss Burton, hostess-instructor who will travel with the mobile unit.

60,000 Limited

About "60,000 homemakers in Nebraska have some kind of physical limitation," she esitmated, "either visible, such as a paralyzed arm, or invisible, such as a cardiac condition."

To these persons, Homemaking Unlimited will be taken to provide rehabilitation programs through education and demonstration.

Through extension home economists a total community program for both individuals and groups will be arranged while the unit is in the area.

Accessible

Easy accessibility into the trailer-like vehicle for women with physical limitations, even in wheelchairs, permits homemakers a first-hand view of the features primarily concerned with safety, ease of use and mobility.

Numerous shelf ideas facilitate work for the sitting and one-armed homemaker, including low counters with space underneath for knees, low cabinets with adjustable, low shelves and shelves in the doors and some cabinets with roll-out or lazy-susan shelves to eliminate moving items to reach others.

All kinds of special gadgets are demonstrated in the mobile unit, including handle holders for pans on the stove, stove burners in one row with controls in front that can be operated without using fingers, long-handle "reach" pincers, short-handled brooms, flexible handle dust mops, and one-armed rolling pins and cutting boards.

Everything in the unit can be purchased commercially, noted Miss Burton.

Bathroom Use

Independent use of the bathroom also is possible for limited persons, according to the unit hostess. Demonstrated in "Homemaking Unlimited" are pull-up bars around the facilities as well as a hand-held shower head and elevated bathtub seat.

An explanation about nutritional foods as well as specially designed clothes including front-opening dresses and shirts and slacks with extra pleats under the arms and at the knees also is a part of the unit.

Unique aprons with hoop waistbands can be put on with one hand. Another featured apron is waterproof with a raised edge so that a homemaker can work with wet things on her lap and catch spills.

Show Slides

A slide presentation that can be shown inside the vehicle demonstrates child care for limited homemakers.

While the unit's primary audience will be homemakers, Miss Burton indicated that the School of Home Economics and the Heart Association also is seeking to reach others such as health related persons, builders and service organizations who can help the physically limited become more independent in homemaking activities.

"It will be local community resources," she told the home economics educators meeting here, "that continue this program in the interims between visits of the Homemaking Unlimited unit."

Photos Losing Quality

. . . FROM MOON

Pasadena, Calif. (AP) — America's Lunar Orbiter ran into serious trouble Friday in the second and third frames of pictures it snapped of a broad plain at the far right edge of the moon.

Clifford Nelson, mission project manager, said "there appears to be some degradation in the high resolution pictures in two of the first three frames."

Other Excellent

Pictures from the other frame were excellent and showed craters and high ridges in sharp detail.

The spacecraft snapped 20 twin picture frames on its 26th orbit early Friday. Some five hours later, on the 27th orbit, it began playing back the first three frames in reverse order.

The first two transmissions of frames No. 2 and No. 3 were blurred and showed little detail. The third transmission was far superior.

"If the problem is permanent it will have a serious impact on the mission," Nelson said. "We would have to refly the mission to get the high-resolution pictures we need of the sites chosen as possible landing areas for Apollo astronauts."

He said it could lie in the film, or in the high-resolution lens, or in the high-resolution shutter.

"There is no thought now that the trouble lies in ground conversion," Nelson said.

Blamed Equipment

He earlier had blamed this equipment rather than the spacecraft.

Asked why technicians had told him earlier in the day that the pictures actually being received from the spacecraft were excellent, Nelson said: "I can only assume that they were looking at the medium-resolution, and not the high-resolution photographs.

Speck's Lawyer Wants Panel Of Psychiatrists

Chicago (UPI) — A defense attorney Thursday asked that an impartial panel of psychiatrists representing both sides be named to examine accused mass slayer Richard Speck "To avoid a spectacle of psychiatrists battling psychiatrists."

The request from Public Defender Gerald Getty was among six motions he filed before Circuit Court Judge Herbert C. Paschen. It was Speck's second court appearance since his arrest July 17 on charges of slaying eight nurses July 14.

Speck, who was hospitalized last month for a heart inflammation, sat glumly on a chair in front of the judge throughout the 12-minute hearing. The tall, 24-year-old seaman looked wan and too thin for his neat blue suit.

Continued

First Asst. State's Atty. John Stamos, protesting that the prosecution was given only 1½ hours to study Getty's motions, asked that rulings be delayed. Paschen continued the hearing until Sept. 1.

In asking appointment of a panel of psychiatrists, three to be named by the defense and three by the prosecution, Getty said:

"My only objective is to find the truth wherever it may be. I don't want psychiatrists to answer hypothetical questions where it would be pitting psychiatrists against each other.

"I want to get away from the spectacle of psychiatrists battling psychiatrists. We want to seek the objective truth here."

Getty entered a plea of innocent for Speck during the Dallas drifter's first court appearance Aug. 1. But he is expected to attempt to establish that Speck was insane at the time of the killings in a south side apartment building being used as a nurse's dormitory.

Getty also asked:

—A complete list of state's witnesses;

—Description in detail the role of each state witness;

—Photos of all fingerprints found at the scene of the killings;

—Prints of all photos taken at the scene;

—Names of all experts employed by the prosecution and copies of their reports, "Whether or not they will be used against us."

Panel of 6

Getty moved for a panel of six psychiatrists, with three to be named by the state and three by the defense. "I would want them to determine the mental capacity of Richard Franklin Speck at the time and date of the alleged crime and at the time of the examination."

Speck, clad in a baggy blue suit, white shirt and blue tie, was pale. But he appeared less bewildered than in his first court appearance, during which he answered all questions in unintelligible mutters.

Rolling His Eyes

A bailiff who watched Speck while the prisoner waited in a jury room before the hearing said the unemployed merchant seaman sat shaking his head from side to side and rolling his eyes. Reporters had noted the same behavior when they were led through Speck county jail hospital ward following the Aug. 1 court appearance.

When Speck was led into the courtroom with a giant guard behind him and two more guards on each side, Getty's first request was a chair for his client.

Asked by newsmen afterward whether he didn't think Speck "was strong enough to stand," Getty replied "What do you think?"

The courtroom was carefully searched before the hearing and spectators and newsmen were required to submit to personal search before entering. Most of the capacity crowd was composed of housewives, some with squalling children.

GOV. WALLACE FOR DEFIANCE

Montgomery, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George Wallace urged the Legislature Thursday night to forbid Alabama schools from complying with federal integration guidelines.

Mindful that the defiance might prompt the government to withhold funds, he said the effect of his new stand was to tell federal officials to "take our money—and they know what they can do with it."

In a prepared speech to the jointly assembled house and senate, and broadcast statewide by television and radio, Wallace called the desegregation guidelines "a blueprint devised by socialists which has as its objective the capture and regimentation of our children and the destruction of our public education system.

He said the guidelines bear "the unqualified, 100% support of the Communist Party, U.S.A., as well as all its fronts, affiliates and publications."

As the governor spoke, administration leaders stood ready to introduce in both houses legislation to carry out the defiant new program which took Wallace to the brink of another major showdown over school integration.

The bill asked the legislature for:

—A statement of policy declaring the guidelines illegal and nullifying any compliance agreements previously signed by city and county school boards.

—Allocation of surplus state funds to reimburse local boards for any federal money lost through failure to obey the integration rules.

—Authority for local boards to waive their right to deal with the U.S. Office of Education in the guidelines dispute and vesting it instead in the governor and legislature.

—Creation of a special commission composed of the chief executive, the lieutenant governor and the 141 members of the legislature to enforce the new law.

King Says Injunction Won't Stop Marchers In Chicago

Chicago (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. vowed Thursday night that open occupancy marches into all-white neighborhoods will continue even if the city obtains a court injunction to prevent them.

"We aren't going to let any injunction turn us around," King told more than a 1,000 civil rights workers gathered at a southwest side church.

King, chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said, "Sunday will be a big day in the city of Chicago and we are asking everyone to be on hand."

"We need numbers in the marches," King said

He did not identify target areas or the number of marches planned Sunday.

He told his cheering audience he had been in jails in many Southern cities and added, "I'm willing to go to jail in Chicago."

King and Albert A. Raby, convenor of the coordinating Council of Community Organizations, reported on Wednesday's conference with civic and church leaders.

"We didn't get enough out of that to merit our calling off the demonstrations, and so the demonstrations will continue," King said.

King said the only thing that would result in a halt to the protest parades would be if real estate dealers were to make housing in white neighborhoods available to Negroes.

King said tomorrow's goal will be to test 100 real estate firms in 10 neighborhoods—five of which have not been previous protest parade targets — including Bridgeport, where Mayor Daley resides.

Other neighborhoods are Gage Park, Bogan, Cragin, Jefferson Park and Chicago Lawn, where marches have occurred, and Logan Square, New City, Hermosa and Portage Park

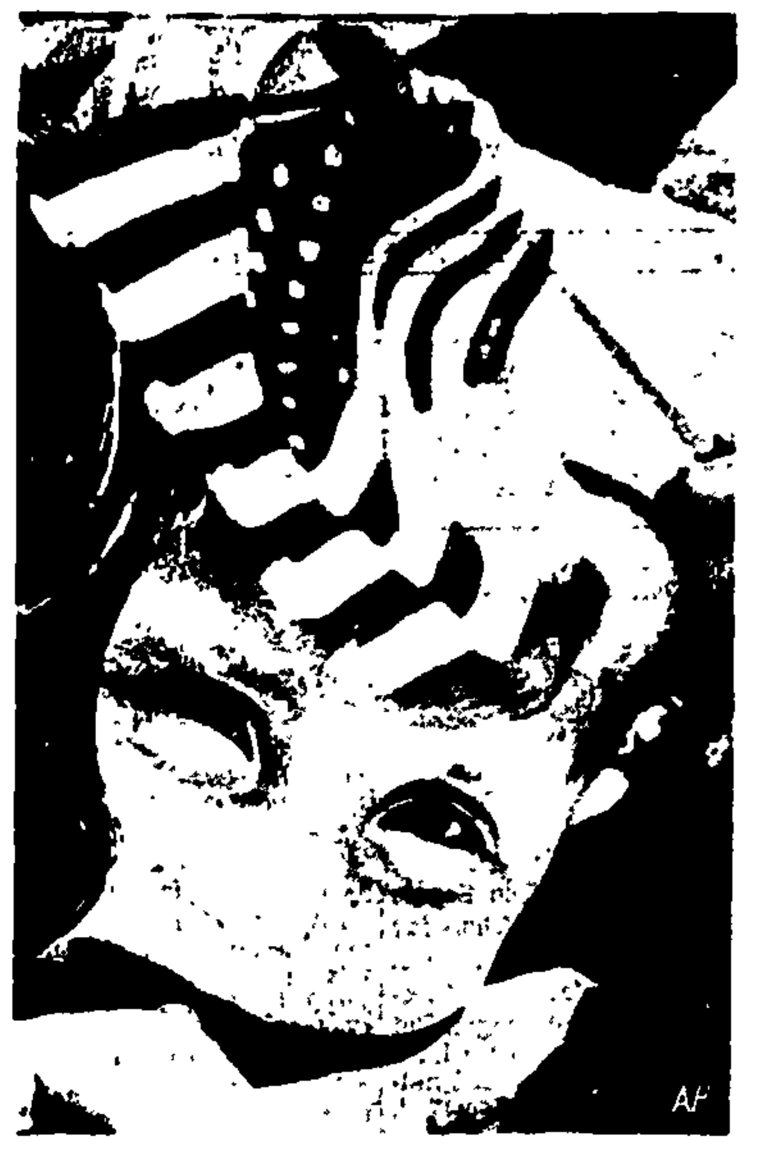
A decision on Sunday's marches will be made after an evaluation of Friday's testing, a civil rights spokesman said.

Encephalitis

Seoul, Korea (UPI) — The social affairs ministry reported 124 confirmed and suspected cases of encephalitis, commonly known as sleeping sickness, have been reported throughout the country. It said 20 persons have died, 3 have recovered and 101 are being treated.

Traffic Dead

Madrid (AP)— Traffic accidents in Spain in the first six months this year killed 258 persons and injured 5,927, official statistics showed. The toll was figured as eight per cent ahead of last year.



COLOR HIM EAGER

Prize-Winning Driver In Crash; Nine Killed

Altavista, Va. (AP)—A high-balling Florida-to-New York Trailways bus, loaded with 39 sleepy passengers and driven by an award-winning driver, collided with a tractor trailer in the pre-dawn darkness Thursday, killing 9 persons and injuring 32.

Police said initial investigation indicated the 16-wheel truck, an REA (Railway Express Agency) vehicle, had drifted "three or four feet" across the center stripe.

The accident happened at 4:45 a.m. EDT about a quarter mile north of this community of 4,000, nestled in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains between Danville and Lynchburg.

Front Caved In

Impact of the crash caved in the front of the red and silver bus, blocking the bus door, and drove the vehicle down a 20-foot embankment. It started to roll but was arrested by a tree at a 45-degree angle.

Both drivers died instantly.

Many persons were trapped in the wreckage and their screams for help brought townspeople rushing from their homes.

Others managed to scramble through bus windows, many of them dripping blood from their near brush with death.

Driver of the bus was Ralph J. Carter, of Danville, who had won 19 safety awards during his 22 years as a bus driver.

"Out of 220 bus drivers that we have, you could not find anyone with a more outstanding record. He was just about perfect and loved people," said Burkett A. Reynolds, vice president and manager of Trailways.

Substituting

The truck driver was identified as Robert W. Woodbury, of Greensboro, N. C. He had been driving for REA for nearly a year and was substituting on a Washington-to-Greensboro run.

The other dead included four white men, one of them tentatively identified as Randall Ferguson of Greenville, S.C., and three Negro women.

Officials said it might be two days before names of all the dead will be released.

Destroyers In Kiel

Kiel, Germany (UPI)—West German naval officials said the U.S. Navy missile-firing destroyers Yarnel, Sellers and J. King, will arrive here Sunday for a five-day visit. The destroyers currently are taking part in North Sea NATO maneuvers with units of the British, Danish and Norwegian navies.

'School Inequality Probe Ignored'

. . . THAT'S CHARGE AGAINST ADMINISTRATION

Washington (UPI)—The administration was accused Thursday of ignoring results of a federal investigation of inequality in city school systems because of "political implications."

Secretary John W. Gardner of the Health, Education and Welfare Department (HEW) denied the charge by Chairman Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., of the Senate subcommittee on executive reorganization.

But Gardner conceded in testimony before the panel that half of an estimated $5 to $6 billion in welfare payments each year ended up in the hands of "slumlords."

"We're trying to do something about it," he said.

The subcommittee is investigating the impact of $13 billion in federal urban aid this year and the underlying causes of violence in big city ghettoes.

Attacking the quality of education in slums, Ribicoff called the controversial federal study a "grave indictment of our educational system."

He quoted from an article by the author of the report, saying administration officials had ignored it "because of possible political implications."

Ordered by the 1964 Civil Rights Act, the study was made for HEW by sociologist James Coleman of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

After a survey of 600,000 school children and 60,000 teachers, the report concluded that pupils from poor families left school "with greater deficiencies" than when they entered.

Pinpointed as the reason was life in a family that was trapped in a ghetto. The report urged an overhaul of school systems to permit children of different backgrounds to mix in the classroom, exposing the poor to the motivations of the middle-class.

The report said transporting slum children to schools in the nicer neighborhoods was not a solution.

"This report means that all our education plans—increasing spending per pupil, more and better libraries and books, education devices—won't solve the crisis in our schools," said Ribicoff, who once held Gardner's cabinet post.

Released Quietly

Instead of promoting the report, Ribicoff said, officials released it quietly on a Friday afternoon for use by the press on Saturday, July 3.

"In my experience in government, that's the best way from keeping anyone from knowing about it," Ribicoff said. "It should have been sent to every city in the country where these are burning issues instead of being treated in such a cavalier manner."

"It wasn't treated in a cavalier manner," said Gardner. "It's being debated as it should right now in this room."

Gardner said the release date was picked to meet the deadline set by the Civil Rights Act—two years after the measure was approved by Congress.

"We think this report is important enough to base public policy on it," said Commissioner Harold Howe II of the Office of Education. "But we would like to wait two years to see if the aid to elementary and secondary schools program might change Coleman's findings."

"I don't know whether Coleman is right or wrong," Ribicoff said. "A lot of these concepts are loaded with political dynamite. We want to hear about them—not just the old cliches."

End To Loup Basin Controversy Urged

By the Associated Press

State and federal officials called Thursday for an end to controversy between residents of the upper and lower Loup River Basin to clear the way for a comprehensive soil and water conservation program.

"As long as there continues to be disagreement, development in the basin will be slow and difficult," said Warren Fairchild, executive secretary of the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission.

At a special meeting, representatives of the state commission and three federal agencies agreed to conduct a meeting or series of meetings to promote greater co-operation in the basin.

They hoped that last weekend's flooding of the lower Loup basin would spur more interest in a basinwide soil and water conservation effort.

They emphasized that such an effort, calling for reservoirs, dikes and proper land treatment and use practices, would not interfere with Loup Basin projects already planned and determined to be feasible.

Basinwide Group Asked

They urged that a basinwide association "with broad interests and representation" be formed to sponsor studies and planning.

Last month, the state commission rejected a request of the lower Loup-Platte Association that it recommend a Loup Basin study to determine project needs.

Fairchild said irrigators in the Upper Loup Basin opposed the request, fearing such a study would delay the proposed North Loup Project pending before Congress.

Federal officials agreed that much of the information needed to formulate a basinwide program has already been gathered and that further studies would only be needed to "fill in the holes."

Paul Harley of Grand Island, project manager for the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, said the bureau has studied the feasibility of constructing dams on the Cedar, Calumus and Middle Loup rivers and Beaver, Spring and Davis creeks.

4 Watersheds

State Conservationist C. Dale Jaedicke of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service said preliminary SCS studies indicate at least four watersheds in the basin should be pegged for full land development programs.

Missouri Division Engineer Charles Cocks of the U.S. Army Corps of engineers said corps studies indicate that there are no dam proposals in the Loup Basin which are feasible for flood control purposes.

However, he said the feasibility of such structures will have to be re-evaluated in light of last week's flooding.

Harley said that last weekend's flood was a "freak" in that 15 to 20% of the area in the basin generated 60% of the flood.

"We can't build to protect against these kinds of floods." said Jaedicke. "It wouldn't be feasible.'

Matula Acted Properly, Shooting Report Shows

Omaha (AP) – Two reports concluded Thursday that Police Officer Floyd Matula acted properly and lawfully in the fatal shooting of 19-year-old Eugene L. Nesbitt

Nebraska News

Mayor A. V. Sorensen made public the reports from L. K. Smith, police-community relations co-ordinator, and County Attorney Donald Knowles.

Knowles said "it clearly appears" Nesbitt "was a felon fleeing arrest. Thus the officer did not act unlawfully but rather justifiably. Thus a coroner's inquest was not ordered."

Smith said it was his opinion that Matula and other officers involved "were fullfilling the obligations imposed upon them by their oath of office, consistent with established procedures of the Police Division."

Both reports said the shooting came after Matula and another patrolman pursued a car carrying Nesbitt and a companion at high speed. The car ran a roadblock and hit a fence.

Smith said Nesbitt abandoned the car and leaped a fence. When Nesbitt disregarded two orders to halt, "Officer Matula shot one shot at the legs of the escaping man from a distance of between 40 and 50 feet."

Knowles said Nesbitt suffered six wounds "in the lower back." The shotgun shell holds nine pellets.

Two States Join In Hunt For Industry

Norfolk (AP)—Two Nebraska and 12 Iowa cities have announced their intention to cooperate in an area industrial development project.

The project includes the cities of Norfolk and Wayne in Nebraska and Ida Grove, Onawa, Spencer, Sheldon, Sanborn, Rock Valley, Le Mars, Sioux Center, Sac City, Denison, Orange City and Sioux City in Iowa.

The undertaking is the result of awareness that an industry located in any one of the communities benefits the total economy of the area, according to Roy Robertson, chairman of the Norfolk Industrial Action Committee.

First promotional effort to be sponsored by this group will be an area tour for industrialists interested in locating plants in the upper Midwest.

Scheduled for the first week in October, the tour will begin Oct. 1 with entertainment at Lake Okoboji, Iowa, and continue through Oct. 3, with a final banquet at Sioux City that evening.

Rockefellers Announce Pregnancy

Albany, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller announced Thursday that they expect the birth of a second child early next year.

The brief announcement was issued by the New York governor's office here.

There were no indications whether the pregnancy would curtail Mrs. Rockefeller's participation in the forthcoming gubernatorial campaign.

She had told friends, however, that she did not expect to play as active a role in campaign activity as she has in the past.

The Rockefellers were married in May 1963 after each had been divorced.

Their first child, Nelson Jr., was born in May 1964, shortly before Rockefeller was defeated in California's presidential primary election.

'Sejdem Se' Favorite Czech Funeral Number

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Wilber—It was the same old request, only this time it came by letter from a town two counties away:

"Promise me you will sing Czech at my funeral."

Milo Chaloupka's rich baritone has helped bury over 2,500 persons—far too many, and yet too few for him to memorize the songs. He insists he still needs a hymnal for both Czech and English.

"I remember once I lost my place and was in real trouble," chuckled the personable farmer, 52. "The only way out was to sing my way, so I just made up words until I caught up with myself."

Thirty-five years a standby for Crete as well as Wilber services, Mike can quickly name a dozen other towns where he was soloist more than once. At least one Czech number is requested at three-fourths of his funerals, with "Sejdem Se" ("Shall We Meet") easily the favorite.

Well-known hymns translated from English also are common selections. The Czech national anthem, "Dje Domov Muj" ("Where Is My Home?"), is sometimes asked for.

Depression Move

Experienced as one of the "Three Jacks and a Joker" with the locally-famed Cretonians, Chaloupka turned to funerals for income during the depression. He's outlasted half a dozen accompanists, gradually hiked his fee from $3 to $10, and had some memorable experiences.

There was the time, for instance, a card-playing buddy casually mentioned the funeral of an acquaintance — which had slipped Mike's mind and which was only minutes away. Pushing him faster still was the day his wife (PeeWee even to her grandchildren) suddenly recalled a Crete funeral she had forgotten to mention

"I was cultivating corn when she came after me at 1:50," the rural vocalist reflected, "but somehow I changed clothes and was at the service 10 miles away at exactly 2:02."

Although PeeWee retains written evidence her husband had two radio station offers, Mike claims his voice was meant for solitude. He often sings from a tractor.

"Actually I'm just a slipping baritone," he grinned. "I've lost a couple notes someplace—maybe out in the field."

Nazarene College Location Choice Said Between Omaha, Kansas City

Omaha (AP)—Omaha is under consideration by the Church of the Nazarene as the site for a four-year liberal arts college, Matt Japp of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce said.

Japp said he understood Kansas City, Mo., is the other city being considered.

The Rev. Herbert Lilly, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene in Omaha, said the school would open in the fall of 1968 with a student body of 400 to 500, with eventual enrollment of 1,800 to 2,000. Support would come primarily from the church and student tuition.

Although open to anyone, the college primarily would serve members of the church families in Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

The decision to build the college was made at the Nazarene General Assembly in 1964. Japp said a site of 150 to 200 acres is sought

The president of the new college will be Dr. Curtis Smith, now vice president of a Nazarene school at Bethany, Okla.

End To Loup Basin Controversy Urged

By the Associated Press

State and federal officials called Thursday for an end to controversy between residents of the upper and lower Loup River Basin to clear the way for a comprehensive soil and water conservation program.

"As long as there continues to be disagreement, development in the basin will be slow and difficult," said Warren Fairchild, executive secretary of the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission.

At a special meeting, representatives of the state commission and three federal agencies agreed to conduct a meeting or series of meetings to promote greater co-operation in the basin.

They hoped that last weekend's flooding of the lower Loup basin would spur more interest in a basinwide soil and water conservation effort.

They emphasized that such an effort, calling for reservoirs, dikes and proper land treatment and use practices, would not interfere with Loup Basin projects already planned and determined to be feasible.

On Our Blind Side

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

While born with little other than potential, the average human being soon acquires a high degree of performance. From his first day of life in the world until the day he takes his last breath, he is exposed to one learning experience after another. But unfortunately, not all such experiences sink in and make of him a broader, more tolerant individual.

Three Strikes To Start

We learn very early, for instance, that there are great differences in the social order in which we live, but rather than a determined effort to unstand them, we too often accept them as we come to know them from others. Mrs. Naomi Brill, Graduate School of Social Work at the University of Nebraska, touched on this subject in a discussion at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education with home economics teachers. Poverty, she warned, reinforces and perpetuates itself. The poor, she noted, have a greater chance of failing in school, of being jobless, marrying younger, and thus, beginning the cycle all over again.

Attempts by the poor to reach out for a better life, said Mrs. Brill, cost more than they do for a well-to-do family. They are often rejected and prejudged by members of the middle class who see them as indecent because they are poor, she declared.

Rather than stopping to consider such thoughts, many people will merely declare that the individual is what he wants to be. It is argued that no one is forced to fail and that all it takes to succeed is sufficient effort. To take such a position is to totally ignore the reality and practicality of the situation. It is to fail to examine the human elements of a problem.

The boy from a poor family may fail in school because he refuses to apply himself. He may well have all the ability he needs to make passing grades but not put the ability to work. Is his failure simply his own fault, then, or are there other factors that we should look at? Should the boy be condemned because he has wasted the talents he has or should an effort be made to salvage for him a useful role in the community? The big question is why, having the ability, he still failed. There could be a multitude of answers. For one thing, he may not understand the demands of the society in which he lives because of his poverty background.

Life as the boy knows it may provide for an education. His vocabulary and personal habits may make him an outcast among other students. His appearance may be a handicap due to poor diet that has hindered his physical development and perhaps even slowed his learning processes. It is possible that he has been instilled with little sense of values, coming from a family environment in which hope had long ago been abandoned. All of these things and many others may be at work on the boy, heaping upon him liabilities he is incapable of overcoming. Under such circumstances as that, how can it be argued that such an individual has failed due to his own fault? It would be like saying that a paralyzed man should be able to lift a hundred pounds because all his muscles are still there.

It is a sad and serious mistake to assume that the poor are poor simply as a result of their own laziness or lack of determination to get ahead. It is incorrect to say in a sweeping condemnation that the poor have had their opportunity, examined it and then rejected it after careful thought.

It is ridiculous to think that the poor have looked at their way of life and a better way of life and, after comparing the two, decided in favor of poverty. No, they are not poor by choice but by virtue of obstacles in their path that they find insurmountable.

Riddle To Be Solved

If the key to unlocking all human potentialities could be forged, the poor among us would be such an infinitesimal number that they would be hard to find. The realities of our economic system demand that there be some among us of greater means and some of lesser means, but there are no inherent reasons for poverty. Poverty represents a human failing about which something can and should be done, not a situation left to deteriorate even further and to be perpetuated from one generation to the next.

Sometimes the chain of poverty is broken simply through the efforts of those enslaved by it. This, however, is proof that the cycle can be broken, not that it is an inevitability over which we have no control. The poor are not indecent; they simply have been failed by the system into which they were born.

Alliance Progress Sufficient?

President Johnson is none too early in his announced plans of doubling efforts through the Alliance for Progress for economic improvement in Latin America. The fact is that, despite the alliance and its progress, much of Latin America is still teeming with revolution.

The great majority of people of South America are disillusioned with the promises of many years and the inefficiency and corruption of one tyrannical government after another. They are disillusioned with unfilled plans for land reform, tax equality and a better way of life.

Particularly among the influential young intellectuals, the faces of both democracy and communism have been scarred. There is growing support in many countries for a socialistic approach that steers a middle path between government concepts of the East and West. Capitalism and the free economic system are winning few converts.

Some progress has been made in housing, roads, education and elsewhere, but there are still millions sleeping in the streets at night and millions suffering the pangs of hunger. We may be on the move in South America toward social justice and some measure of prosperity, but we are not moving fast enough.

The disparities that exist between economic groups in South America have been closed little in recent years. There are still just a few who are prosperous and many who are impoverished. We do not have forever to reverse the situation. There is an urgency in South America that can no longer be quieted with anything other than results, as staggering as such a challenge may seem.

The Pro And The Con

Currently in New Canaan, Connecticut, the community is divided by a fervid controversy.

Recently the police commission there formed a secret group of residents called the Citizens Alert Corps. They were sworn to the duty of informing the police department of any law-breaking coming under their eyes. New Canaan, like many communities, has been plagued with the reluctance of citizens to be witnesses, and chose the Citizens Alert Corps plan to cope with an increasing amount of law-breaking.

The action was hotly protested by many members of the community who saw the move as a gestapo arrangement or a secret police system as is used in Russia.

This is a divided question. All citizens have a duty of upholding the law and promoting the peace of a community. At the same time secret informers, even though they cannot cause an arrest, seem inimical to the American system.

Yet we are reminded of an incident in Lincoln last week. Four men were standing in front of a filling station and were in full view of an automobile accident. A truck, running a stop light, caused a car to swerve and, in swerving, it struck another car. Two people were injured. But before the police could arrive, three of the eyewitnesses simply disappeared. They disappeared because they did not wish to be involved nor serve as witnesses in court. One remained because he felt his duty. He was distraught because of all four, he was the only one who would speak of what they had seen.

Perhaps the police commission of New Canaan did not go at it right, but it is also true that citizens who will not cooperate to preserve law and order are aiding its breakdown.

NEW YORK—We are a nation of collectors. Our collections are not necessarily hobbies. They are the curses of inventive prosperity.

It's not the collection of gadgets, actually, that is such a course; gadgets are fun and, occasionally, even useful.

It's the papers that come with them. The directions on how to open. The instructions on how to operate. The reminders on how to care for. The warantees and guarantees and order blanks for refills.

At our apartment, one sprawling drawer is a veritable litter basket of folders, tags, certificates and instruction sheets. This drawer should be weeded out, but we hesitate to throw the papers away — mainly because we didn't understand them in the first place, and we feel certain that some day we'll get around to muddling them through.

Like, there's the brochure for the floor-polisher that begins, "Congratulations. Now that you are the proud possessor of a —— polisher and scrubber, give it regular care. Every three months, remove the three screws marked 'A' on the underside of the base, then turn machine right side up and remove screw in center of handle swivel plate. Turn field lead to rear of handle swivel and . . ."

Some day (I'm vaguely positive) we're going to have to clean this thing that we proudly possess, and that field lead will have to be turned, and meantime we're stuck with the booklet.

You would think I could throw away a simple little instruction paper that says merely, "Hello there, my name is ——, I'm a pot cleaner. Soak me well and use." But of course, I cannot. Because as every housewife knows there are some pot cleaners which don't want to be soaked well and you've got to remember every handy helper's little idiosyncrasies.

Scattered more haphazardly throughout the drawer, as I discovered yesterday during a bi-annual search for the rules on how to oil a knife-sharpener, are nearly 150 other "How To" pamphlets collected through the years.

Civic Action Program Makes Steady Gains

WASHINGTON — President Johnson was studying the latest report on non-military activities in South Viet Nam.

"I see the price of pork has gone up in Saigon," he said. "We've got to get some hogs over there."

Bob Komer, head of the Civic Action Program, who followed up the President's probing, found that there were plenty of hogs in South Viet Nam but that the problem was distribution. Prices in the central market were so low that farmers were not sending their hogs to market. By rearranging marketing, he managed to pay the farmers more and simultaneously lower the price of pork.

This economic maneuver was part of the Civic Action Program, one of the most remarkable conducted in any war, namely to build up a country while that country is engaged in war.

After the two world wars, the United States sent the American Red Cross UNRRA, the Marshall Plan, along with various private relief agencies, to reconstruct devastated Europe. But with a few exceptions, as in the case of the Quakers, this reconstruction waited until after the war.

In South Viet Nam, however, we are busy in primative villages, adjoining the jungles and the rice paddies, rebuilding a country in which we are fighting without waiting for the war to be over.

In South Viet Nam, President Johnson has put this program under supervision of a special assistant, Robert Komer, with offices in the White House, who reports to the President personally. Johnson regards civic action as the most important program in Southeast Asia.

The battle of civic action hasn't been easy. The enemies are first the Viet Cong; second our own military red tape. It's a constant battle to get supplies and the planes to carry them. Part of Komer's time is spent intervening at the Pentagon. In this battle, however, his best ally is the top man in the Pentagon, Secretary of Defense Bob McNamara, who is 100 per cent sold on civic action.

Another cabinet member who has helped is Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, who is enlisting agricultural experts—the equivalent of "county agents" — to go to Viet Nam to work with local farmers.

On this, Secretary McNamara has been helpful, too. He's dug up 26 American soldiers or officers who are serving in uniform as county agents with Vietnamese farmers. They are on the job already, whereas the men recommended by Freeman have required screening.

As a result of this farm program, Vietnamese farmers increased their fertilized acreage in 1965 from 700,000 to 1,920,000. Newly irrigated land has also been increased by about 750,000 acres even while the war has been in progress.

To help solve the food problem, the Civic Action Program has supplied fishermen with 10,000 outboard motors, 50,000 sets of fishing gear, 27,000,000 fingerlings and 16 new fishing piers.

The most important job of all, however, and the most difficult, has been education. A total of 61 village schools were built in the last six months, but three and four per month have been burned down by the Viet Cong. It's been a battle — to build schools, train school teachers, then have the school houses burned down, and the school teachers in some cases murdered. But the battle continues; and makes a little progress each month.

Doctors Vs. Lawyers In Halls Of Congress

WASHINGTON — Some politicians are aghast at the growing tendency of doctors to seek public office. The trend began with the Medicare legislation. And now there's even talk of a law to prevent doctors from owning stock in drug manufacturing and drug repackaging firms.

The doctors, more in self-preservation than in public spirit, have decided that what they need are a few more seats in Congress. That, plus a working agreement with members of Congress who are lawyers, as the majority of them are. Not without reason, the doctors feel that lawyers ought to be able to understand lucrative sidelines.

The deal might work something like this: If the congressmen-lawyers would get off their "anti-doctors" kick, then the congressmen-doctors would promise not to probe the tender area around conflict-of-interest — namely, congressmen who maintain their private law practices.

Otherwise, certain doctors say, they will have no choice but to rock the boat. (Or, in this case, the Ship of State.) I have examined the case for five minutes and I find everybody guilty. In addition to their private law practices, many congressmen-lawyers own real estate offices and insurance firms on the side.

About one-third of the members of Congress own or have stock in radio and television stations. (And some of them are surprisingly well-sponsored, considering how remote many of the stations are.) An attack such as this might be a bitter pill for congressmen-lawyers—broadcasters to swallow.

To avoid open war, congressmen-lawyers would be well-advised to avoid legislation prohibiting doctors from owning pieces of nearby drug stores and/or prescription counters.

Add to the "leave-alone" list a law forbidding doctors from splitting fees with surgeons. (Doctors should have no trouble explaining this and "finder's fees" to lawyers.) And any law preventing doctors from owning hospitals would be unthinkable. Why, you might as well suggest that dentists be forced to sell their stock in a currently popular toothpaste.

Frankly, I see no problems for the lawyers in Congress, despite a possible influx of medical men, so long as the lawyers play the game. At least, that's what I hear and I've had my stethoscope to the ground.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

An Urgent Feel To August

By MONA B. PARKER

August gives Helen Lough, of the Albion News Loughs, a feeling of urgency. It is the reminder that summer will soon be over and all the things a person has planned so diligently remain largley undone. From regrets over unfinished tasks, Mrs. Lough slips into rather a melancholy philosophical comparison between one summer and life itself . . . with August representing middle age . . .

"However enjoyable or comfortable life may be, there are troubled, despairing moments when one wonders how much time is left and what will happen in it. Dreams are harder to come by now and one hopes for wisdom and complacence to supplant them. Just to live and relish each day, one at a time, must be the magic formula for contentment."

Archie Kuhn doesn't have a feeling of urgency. The Hemingford Ledger editor admits to downright panic . . .

"Right now, we're sweating out a big rush in job printing just as we're getting out the fair book . . . getting caught up on our newspapering . . . preparing for a daughter's wedding . . . and remodeling the main floor of the house."

☆ ☆ ☆

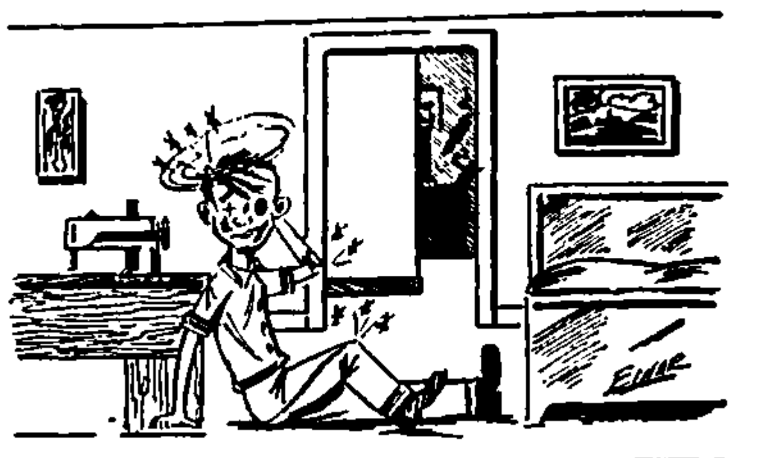
E. R. Montgomery appreciates his wife, all right, but never quite so much as when she isn't around the Morrill Mail office, doing her column and anything else that needs doing. She was sick about a week and the rest of the staff endeavored to pitch in and do her work.

Monty explains it thus:

"We have had quite a time trying to find her news notes and then figure out what they are all about. No way of telling how many we missed or how wrongly we may have written up some of those we found. Have been thinking about skipping out as soon as the paper is printed—before the complaints start coming in."



One Kearney man will probably offer to do the work himself, odd as it may seem, next time his spouse wants the furniture in the house shuffled about. He works nights and had decided to take a short nap before leaving for his job. He entered the dark bedroom and threw himself across the bed. Except that his wife had rearranged the furniture that afternoon and what he fell across was the sewing machine. Injuries included a nasty gash across the nose, a blackened eye—and no doubt an extremely ruffled temper.

The Oxford Standard tosses out little tidbits each week that are certainly, well, different, if not to say timely or even practical. Frinstance . . .

"Today's health hint: Don't eat polar bear liver. It's poisonous.". .

A gardening oddity that has been mentioned before popped into the news again. The David City Banner-Press explained what appear to be small tomatoes on potato plants.

"Don't be concerned about small tomato-like fruit on your potatoes." Jack Tarr advised reader-growers. "They're seed balls and they won't affect the yield or quality of potatoes."

The Chester Herald had a report that will be received with open mouth by those who enjoy eating cucumbers but dislike the aftermath.

A burpless cucumber has come to its attention. Grown locally from seeds brought from Lebanon by a relative, they seem to do extremely well in Nebraska soil. If production expands, the Herald surmises, "It should help rid this part of the world of a lot of bothersome burps!"

There is the famous story of a man without a country, but A. W. Wilhelms of the Stromsburg Headlight knows a boy without a hometown. In fact, he's related to him.

His grand-nephew, David Dowdy, will be in the first grade this year and will attend school at Belvidere. His family's mailing address is Carleton. They attend church in Bruning, and their phone is on the Hebron exchange.

Daily TV watching may get to be a habit, but this is ridiculous. A Hastings woman has been assigned the task, by a friend who is away on vacation, of watching the traveler's favorite daily serial, write a brief account of that day's happenings and forward them to her friend, who will then know what has transpired in the story during her absence.

If we know anything at all about soap operas, you could be gone for three years, turn it on and not have noticeably missed too much of the action.

MARQUIS CHILDS

McNamara Unruffled At Criticism

WASHINGTON — The volleys fired from Capitol Hill across the Potomac at the man in the Pentagon are slightly off target. What is more, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara seems not in the least disturbed as the shot and shell fall around him.

Of all the strange aspects of perhaps the strangest war in America's history, the conflict between McNamara and his congressional critics ranks high. The conflict in and of itself is more of the same. Civilian secretaries have traditionally been the target for political critics.

But with McNamara determined to hold down costs and his congressional attackers bent on forcing him to spend more, it is the reversal of the traditional roles that makes this remarkable. Even those who talk loudest about economy have been helping to load the defense budget with a half billion to a billion dollars of unwanted money. The secretary is, of course, not compelled to spend funds that Congress appropriates above budgeted requests.

After a week's vacation climbing Mt. Ranier — a characteristic relaxation for McNamara — he will pick up the pruning shears again to cut costs still further. So confident is the secretary in his estimate of the number of planes likely to be lost in the current fiscal year that he means to cut back production schedules. How—and where—the cutting will be done is still a carefully guarded secret. In testimony before the Senate Appropriations Committee, he put the probable loss at 580 planes.

While it is an oversimplification, the fundamental difference between McNamara and his congressional critics is that he believes the Viet Nam conflict can be kept a limited war as against the view of those in Congress who want to pull out all the steps. Thus far the President has given unqualified support to his secretary of defense, whom he rarely fails to praise in glowing terms.

It is not that McNamara is unaware of the escalating cost of the Viet Nam war. He is engaged in calculating how much of a supplemental appropriation he will have to call on Congress for, and until all the returns are in, he will not give even a general estimate of how many billions will be in this added bill.

Until recently he had been confident that he could put off the grim day until early January. Now there is some doubt as, with the movement of troops up to 350,000 into Viet Nam, the costs mount correspondingly. Congress, called back into session after the November 8 election to vote the additional billions, might also be called on for a tax increase to pay for it.

Figures are by no means McNamara's sole preoccupation. He is making a speech in New York next Tuesday reportedly going to the heart of the most sensitive of all problems — manpower, the draft and the demand of his Senate critics that reservists be called up. He is likely to enlarge on the concept of national service for all youths, a proposal in his talk to the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Montreal in May that touched off loud repercussions.

So much stress does the secretary put on this speech to the Veterans of Foreign Wars that his own early drafts are rated top secret and locked in his private safe.

"As matters stand," McNamara said at Montreal, "our present selective service system draws on only a minority of eligible young men. That is an inequity. It seems to me we could move toward remedying that inequity by asking every young person in the United States to give two years of service to his country — whether in one of the military services, in the Peace Corps, or in some other volunteer developmental work at home or abroad."

He added that there were those who said such a proposal was inappropriate in the middle of a shooting war but that he believed precisely the opposite was the case. With American youths called on for universal service, we would show that we meant what we said about the central concept of security—a world of decency and development, in his words, where every man can feel that his personal horizon is rimmed with hope. At one extreme, his critics on the left charged that he proposed to put the whole nation in uniform. For persistent advocates of calling up the reservists and the National Guard, his was no answer at all.

Again and again McNamara has shown that he is a rarity in the Johnson administration. Above all, this is because of his readiness to supply fresh thinking for old problems even as he tries to hold a tight rein on the wild horses in the Pentagon. Who is man, he asks. And he answers with his own conviction that he is a rational animal with a near infinite capacity for folly.

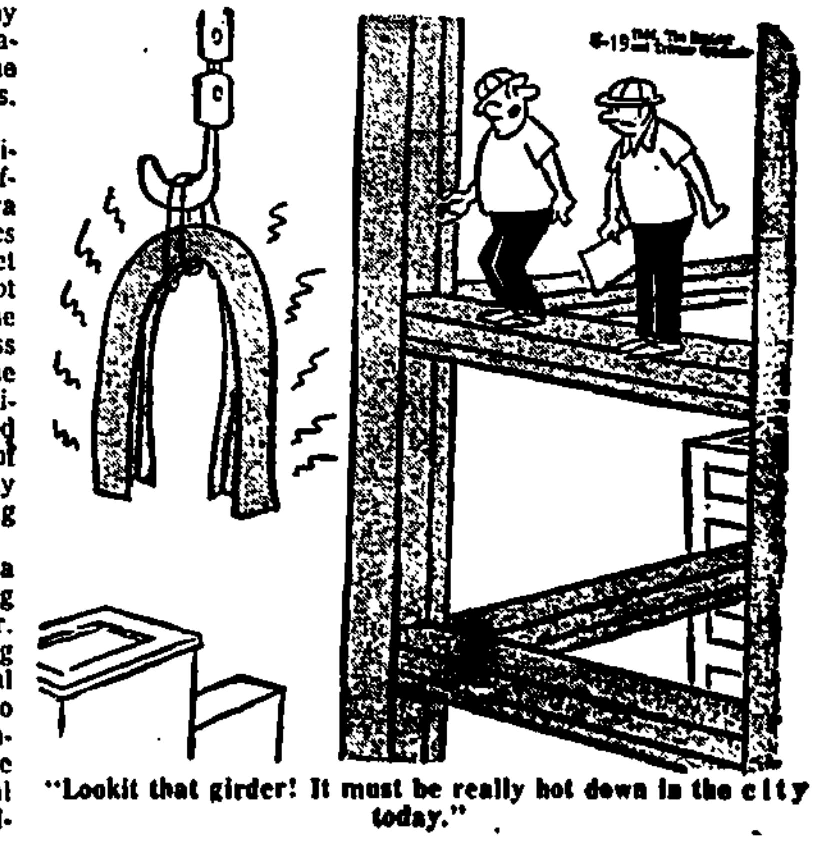
OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed



"Lookit that girder! It must be really hot down in the city today."

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

While born with little other than potential, the average human being soon acquires a high degree of performance. From his first day of life in the world until the day he takes his last breath, he is exposed to one learning experience after another. But unfortunately, not all such experiences sink in and make of him a broader, more tolerant individual.

Three Strikes To Start

We learn very early, for instance, that there are great differences in the social order in which we live, but rather than a determined effort to unstand them, we too often accept them as we come to know them from others. Mrs. Naomi Brill, Graduate School of Social Work at the University of Nebraska, touched on this subject in a discussion at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education with home economics teachers. Poverty, she warned, reinforces and perpetuates itself. The poor, she noted, have a greater chance of failing in school, of being jobless, marrying younger, and thus, beginning the cycle all over again.

Attempts by the poor to reach out for a better life, said Mrs. Brill, cost more than they do for a well-to-do family. They are often rejected and prejudged by members of the middle class who see them as indecent because they are poor, she declared.

Rather than stopping to consider such thoughts, many people will merely declare that the individual is what he wants to be. It is argued that no one is forced to fail and that all it takes to succeed is sufficient effort. To take such a position is to totally ignore the reality and practicality of the situation. It is to fail to examine the human elements of a problem.

The boy from a poor family may fail in school because he refuses to apply himself. He may well have all the ability he needs to make passing grades but not put the ability to work. Is his failure simply his own fault, then, or are there other factors that we should look at? Should the boy be condemned because he has wasted the talents he has or should an effort be made to salvage for him a useful role in the community? The big question is why, having the ability, he still failed. There could be a multitude of answers. Civic Action Program Makes Steady Gains

WASHINGTON — President Johnson was studying the latest report on non-military activities in South Viet Nam.

"I see the price of pork has gone up in Saigon," he said. "We've got to get some hogs over there."

Bob Komer, head of the Civic Action Program, who followed up the President's probing, found that there were plenty of hogs in South Viet Nam but that the problem was distribution. Prices in the central market were so low that farmers were not sending their hogs to market. By rearranging marketing, he managed to pay the farmers more and simultaneously lower the price of pork.

This economic maneuver was part of the Civic Action Program, one of the most remarkable conducted in any war, namely to build up a country while that country is engaged in war.

After the two world wars, the United States sent the American Red Cross UNRRA, the Marshall Plan, along with various private relief agencies, to reconstruct devastated Europe. But with a few exceptions, as in the case of the Quakers, this reconstruction waited until after the war.

In South Viet Nam, however, we are busy in primative villages, adjoining the jungles and the rice paddies, rebuilding a country in which we are fighting without waiting for the war to be over.

In South Viet Nam, President Johnson has put this program under supervision of a special assistant, Robert Komer, with offices in the White House, who reports to the President personally. Johnson regards civic action as the most important program in Southeast Asia.

The battle of civic action hasn't been easy. The enemies are first the Viet Cong; second our own military red tape. It's a constant battle to get supplies and the planes to carry them. Part of Komer's time is spent intervening at the Pentagon. In this battle, however, his best ally is the top man in the Pentagon, Secretary of Defense Bob McNamara, who is 100 per cent sold on civic action.

Another cabinet member who has helped is Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, who is enlisting agricultural experts—the equivalent of "county agents" — to go to Viet Nam to work with local farmers.

On this, Secretary McNamara has been helpful, too. He's dug up 26 American soldiers or officers who are serving in uniform as county agents with Vietnamese farmers. They are on the job already, whereas the men recommended by Freeman have required screening.

As a result of this farm program, Vietnamese farmers increased their fertilized acreage in 1965 from 700,000 to 1,920,000. Newly irrigated land has also been increased by about 750,000 acres even while the war has been in progress.

To help solve the food problem, the Civic Action Program has supplied fishermen with 10,000 outboard motors, 50,000 sets of fishing gear, 27,000,000 fingerlings and 16 new fishing piers.

The most important job of all, however, and the most difficult, has been education. A total of 61 village schools were built in the last six months, but three and four per month have been burned down by the Viet Cong. It's been a battle — to build schools, train school teachers, then have the school houses burned down, and the school teachers in some cases murdered. But the battle continues; and makes a little progress each month.

Doctors Vs. Lawyers In Halls Of Congress

WASHINGTON — Some politicians are aghast at the growing tendency of doctors to seek public office. The trend began with the Medicare legislation. And now there's even talk of a law to prevent doctors from owning stock in drug manufacturing and drug repackaging firms.

The doctors, more in self-preservation than in public spirit, have decided that what they need are a few more seats in Congress. That, plus a working agreement with members of Congress who are lawyers, as the majority of them are. Not without reason, the doctors feel that lawyers ought to be able to understand lucrative sidelines.

The deal might work something like this: If the congressmen - lawyers would get off their "anti-doctors" kick, then the congressmen-doctors would promise not to probe the tender area around conflict-of-interest — namely, congressmen who maintain their private law practices.

Otherwise, certain doctors say, they will have no choice but to rock the boat. (Or, in this case, the Ship of State.) I have examined the case for five minutes and I find everybody guilty. In addition to their private law practices, many congressmen-lawyers own real estate offices and insurance firms on the side.

About one-third of the members of Congress own or have stock in radio and television stations. (And some of them are surprisingly well-sponsored, considering how remote many of the stations are.) An attack such as this might be a bitter pill for congressmen - lawyers — broadcasters to swallow.

To avoid open war, congressmen-lawyers would be well-advised to avoid legislation prohibiting doctors from owning pieces of nearby drug stores and/or prescription counters.

Add to the "leave-alone" list a law forbidding doctors from splitting fees with surgeons. (Doctors should have no trouble explaining this and "finder's fees" to lawyers.) And any law preventing doctors from owning hospitals would be unthinkable. Why, you might as well suggest that dentists be forced to sell their stock in a currently popular toothpaste.

Frankly, I see no problems for the lawyers in Congress, despite a possible influx of medical men, so long as the lawyers play the game. At least, that's what I hear and I've had my stethoscope to the ground.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

An Urgent Feel To August

By MONA B. PARKER

August gives Helen Lough, of the Albion News Loughs, a feeling of urgency. It is the reminder that summer will soon be over and all the things a person has planned so diligently remain largley undone. From regrets over unfinished tasks, Mrs. Lough slips into rather a melancholy philosophical comparison between one summer and life itself . . . with August representing middle age . . .

"However enjoyable or comfortable life may be, there are troubled, despairing moments when one wonders how much time is left and what will happen in it. Dreams are harder to come by now and one hopes for wisdom and complacence to supplant them. Just to live and relish each day, one at a time, must be the magic formula for contentment."

☆ ☆ ☆

Archie Kuhn doesn't have a feeling of urgency. The Hemingford Ledger editor admits to downright panic . . .

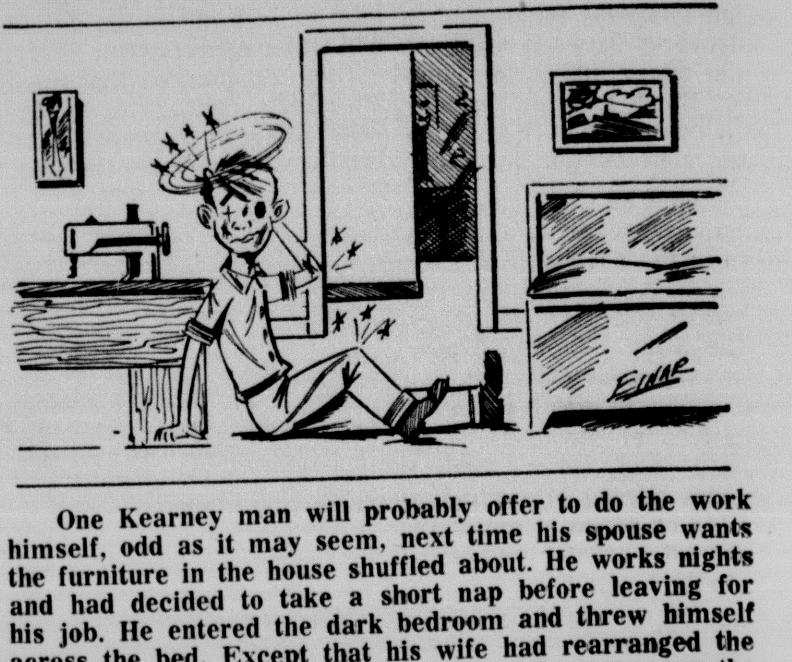
"Right now, we're sweating out a big rush in job printing just as we're getting out the fair book . . . getting caught up on our newspapering . . . preparing for a daughter's wedding . . . and remodeling the main floor of the house."

☆ ☆ ☆

E. R. Montgomery appreciates his wife, all right, but never quite so much as when she isn't around the Morrill Mail office, doing her column and anything else that needs doing. She was sick about a week and the rest of the staff endeavored to pitch in and do her work.

Monty explains it thus:

"We have had quite a time trying to find her news notes and then figure out what they are all about. No way of telling how many we missed or how wrongly we may have written up some of those we found. Have been thinking about skipping out as soon as the paper is printed—before the complaints start coming in."



One Kearney man will probably offer to do the work himself, odd as it may seem, next time his spouse wants the furniture in the house shuffled about. He works nights and had decided to take a short nap before leaving for his job. He entered the dark bedroom and threw himself across the bed. Except that his wife had rearranged the furniture that afternoon and what he fell across was the sewing machine. Injuries included a nasty gash across the nose, a blackened eye—and no doubt an extremely ruffled temper.

The Oxford Standard tosses out little tidbits each week that are certainly, well, different, if not to say timely or even practical. Frinstance . . .

"Today's health hint: Don't eat polar bear liver. It's poisonous."..

A gardening oddity that has been mentioned before popped into the news again. The David City Banner-Press explained what appear to be small tomatoes on potato plants.

"Don't be concerned about small tomato-like fruit on your potatoes," Jack Tarr advised reader - growers. "They're seed balls and they won't affect the yield or quality of potatoes."

The Chester Herald had a report that will be received with open mouth by those who enjoy eating cucumbers but dislike the aftermath.

A burpless cucumber has come to its attention. Grown locally from seeds brought from Lebanon by a relative, they seem to do extremely well in Nebraska soil. If production expands, the Herald surmises, "It should help rid this part of the world of a lot of bothersome burps!"

There is the famous story of a man without a country, but A. W. Wilhelms of the Stromsburg Headlight knows a boy without a hometown. In fact, he's related to him.

His grand-nephew, David Dowdy, will be in the first grade this year and will attend school at Belvidere. His family's mailing address is Carleton. They attend church in Bruning, and their phone is on the Hebron exchange.

Daily TV watching may get to be a habit, but this is ridiculous. A Hastings woman has been assigned the task, by a friend who is away on vacation, of watching the traveler's favorite daily serial, write a brief account of that day's happenings and forward them to her friend, who will then know what has transpired in the story during her absence.

If we know anything at all about soap operas, you could be gone for three years, turn it on and not have noticeably missed too much of the action.

MARQUIS CHILDS

McNamara Unruffled At Criticism

WASHINGTON — The volleys fired from Capitol Hill across the Potomac at the man in the Pentagon are slightly off target. What is more, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara seems not in the least disturbed as the shot and shell fall around him.

Of all the strange aspects of perhaps the strangest war in America's history, the conflict between McNamara and his congressional critics ranks high. The conflict in and of itself is more of the same. Civilian secretaries have traditionally been the target for political critics.

But with McNamara determined to hold down costs and his congressional attackers bent on forcing him to spend more, it is the reversal of the traditional roles that makes this remarkable. Even those who talk loudest about economy have been helping to load the defense budget with a half billion to a billion dollars of unwanted money. The secretary is, of course, not compelled to spend funds that Congress appropriates above budgeted requests.

After a week's vacation climbing Mt. Ranier — a characteristic relaxation for McNamara — he will pick up the pruning shears again to cut costs still further. So confident is the secretary in his estimate of the number of planes likely to be lost in the current fiscal year that he means to cut back production schedules. How—and where—the cutting will be done is still a carefully guarded secret. In testimony before the Senate Appropriations Committee, he put the probable loss at 580 planes.

While it is an oversimplification, the fundamental difference between McNamara and his congressional critics is that he believes the Viet Nam conflict can be kept a limited war as against the view of those in Congress who want to pull out all the stops. Thus far the President has given unqualified support to his secretary of defense, whom he rarely fails to praise in glowing terms.

It is not that McNamara is unaware of the escalating cost of the Viet Nam war. He is engaged in calculating how much of a supplemental appropriation he will have to call on Congress for, and until all the returns are in, he will not give even a general estimate of how many billions will be in this added bill.

Until recently he had been confident that he could put off the grim day until early January. Now there is some doubt as, with the movement of troops up to 350,000 into Viet Nam, the costs mount correspondingly. Congress, called back into session after the November 8 election to vote the additional billions, might also be called on for a tax increase to pay for it.

Figures are by no means McNamara's sole preoccupation. He is making a speech in New York next Tuesday reportedly going to the heart of the most sensitive of all problems — manpower, the draft and the demand of his Senate critics that reservists be called up. He is likely to enlarge on the concept of national service for all youths, a proposal in his talk to the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Montreal in May that touched off loud repercussions.

So much stress does the secretary put on this speech to the Veterans of Foreign Wars that his own early drafts are rated top secret and locked in his private safe.

"As matters stand," McNamara said at Montreal, "our present selective service system draws on only a minority of eligible young men. That is an inequity. It seems to me we could move toward remedying that inequity by asking every young person in the United States to give two years of service to his country — whether in one of the military services, in the Peace Corps, or in some other volunteer developmental work at home or abroad."

He added that there were those who said such a proposal was inappropriate in the middle of a shooting war but that he believed precisely the opposite was the case. With American youths called on for universal service, we would show that we meant what we said about the central concept of security—a world of decency and development, in his words, where every man can feel that his personal horizon is rimmed with hope. At one extreme, his critics on the left charged that he proposed to put the whole nation in uniform. For persistent advocates of calling up the reservists and the National Guard, his was no answer at all.

Again and again McNamara has shown that he is a rarity in the Johnson administration. Above all, this is because of his readiness to supply fresh thinking for old problems even as he tries to hold a tight rein on the wild horses in the Pentagon. Who is man, he asks. And he answers with his own conviction that he is a rational animal with a near infinite capacity for folly.

Lincoln Authority Can Rent Air Base Housing

The Lincoln Housing Authority has been granted a five year contract to rent the 1,000-unit Lincoln Air Force Base housing area, it was disclosed Thursday.

The agreement calls for the local authority to "manage and maintain" the housing area for the Air Force over the period with costs to the authority, up to $100,000, to be covered by the government for the first two years.

Successful negotiations were concluded after the housing authority, Mayor Dean Petersen and other local officials talked with representatives of the Air Force, Office of Economic Opportunity, General Services Administration and the Army Corps of Engineers.

An 18-month cancellation clause, applying to both parties, was included in the contract. Net rent profits will be turned over to the government.

No Talk

"We should get our right of entry by Monday if the agreement is approved at the top," said Housing Authority Chairman Kenneth King. He added that there has been no talk of purchasing the housing development.

King said the units would be rented to Job Corps personnel, university students, military personnel and low-income families on a one-year lease basis.

The rental schedule will range from $55 to $250 per month. Rent will be set by the authority.

"Our primary concern in getting into this thing is to protect the housing market in Lincoln," King explained. "We really don't want to rent all of them."

He said the authority didn't want the homes to be sold—"We were in a position to negotiate for them without having them dumped on the market."

He said the authority was not trying to compete with Lincoln's housing industry.

Every house, King said, has a price on it, based on rooms, square footage and bedrooms (ranging from two to four in all 1,000 units).

The authority chairman said ground rules for tenants still must be formed, but all rentals will include utilities, with the exception of telephones.

Taking control of the federal housing area will signal the close of the obsolete Huskerville development, according to King.

The agreement climaxes several months of negotiations between local officals and federal agencies.

Caldwell Charged With Robbery In Boughn Holdup

Omaha (AP) — Harold J. Caldwell, Omaha, was charged with robbery in the Monday night holdup of Thurston County Judge Charles E. Boughn, 51, of Walthill.

Judge Boughn told police he was en route home after attending a show and that his car was flagged down by two young men who threatened him with a knife, then drove him to an isolated spot and took his billfold.

Police later stopped a car and took into custody Caldwell, 21, and a youth who has been turned over to juvenile authorities.

House OKs Federal Building, Post Office

The House of Representatives Thursday approved appropriation for Lincoln's new post office and federal office building, Rep. Clair Callan reported.

A $2.9 million construction appropriation was passed for the post office and the $2.4 million site acquisition and planning appropriation for the federal office building, recommended by Senate-House conferees, was accepted.

"It is almost unheard of to get authorization and appropriations for a federal project in the same year," Callan said, noting House approval of the office building funds.

Nebraskans have been attempting to get authorization for the federal building since 1962, the First District Democrat noted.

"I'm glad to report now that both projects are in line," Callan said.

"Next year, we'll go after appropriations for construction money for the federal office building and this should then put Lincoln in good shape for a federal court, federal offices and up-to-date postal facilities."

Kentucky Teens' Still In Jail

London, Ky. (AP)—Jailer Joe Proffitt recently discovered an example of good, old American ingenuity and know-how in the London jail.

Two teen-agers made a miniature moonshine still from such odds and ends as coffee and tobacco cans and copper tubing from their cell commode.

Mash for the whisky was made by adding water to crumbled cornbread and sugar salvaged from their meals.

NSEA ADDS THREE PERSONS TO SERVICES STAFF

Three persons have joined the Nebraska State Education Association staff to expand services to state teachers and local associations, information officer Barc Bayley announced here Thursday.

Noel Roberts, formerly a fifth grade teacher at Hastings, has been named consultant for local associations to provide assistance and direction to some 180 local groups belonging to NSEA.

Named consultant in teacher welfare, with emphasis on professional rights and responsibilities, was Gene Geisler, previously a counselor in the Omaha Westside schools.

A former State Department of Education employe, Mrs. Zelda Busch, was designated research assistant for the NSEA. She served as assistant to the director of statistical services for the state.

Included in the staff reorganization was the change o position for Paul Belz, former director of research. Bel was named director of professional development an welfare on the 18-man NSE staff.

Martin Raps Beautification

Washington (UPI)—Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., has called for the elimination of the highway beautification section of the federal aid to highways program.

The bill authorizes to be appropriated $160 million for control of outdoor advertising; $48 million for control of junk yards; and $285 million for "landscape and scenic enchantment."

"In view of the tremendous cost of the Viet Nam war, and in view of the fact that the President and Defense Secretary Robert McNamara have refused to spend any funds on military housing and other needed programs because of expenditures for Viet Nam, I feel strongly that our country could still survive even if this $493 million to beautify our highways is postponed," he said.

Diocese Adds To Educational Staff

The Lincoln Catholic Diocese Office of Education Thursday announced two consultants have been added to its administrative staff.

They are Sister Hilga Gunther, a Marycrest Franciscan nun from Denver, and Sister Francetta Cronin, a Benedictine sister from Yankton, S.D.

House OKs Federal Building, Post Office

The House of Representatives Thursday approved appropriations for Lincoln's new post office and federal office building, Rep. Clair Callan reported.

A $2.9 million construction appropriation was passed for the post office and the $2.4 million site acquisition and planning appropriation for the federal office building, recommended by Senate-House conferees, was accepted.

"It is almost unheard of to get authorization and appropriations for a federal project in the same year," Callan said, noting House approval of the office building funds.

Nebraskans have been attempting to get authorization for the federal building since 1962, the First District Democrat noted.

"I'm glad to report now that both projects are in line," Callan said.

"Next year, we'll go after appropriations for construction money for the federal office building and this should then put Lincoln in good shape for a federal court, federal offices and up-to-date postal facilities."

Damage Suit Filed Against Montgomery Ward

A $51,420 damage suit was filed in Lancaster District Court against Montgomery Ward Inc. for alleged money due the plaintiffs as managers of the Ward's catalog sales agency in Crete and for slander.

Harvey Duba and Sharon K. Duba allege that on Nov. 5, 1965, two employes of the firm made a check of records of business operated by them for the defendant company and the manager of the catalog sales agency demanded $12,674.83 from them and threatened criminal prosecution if not paid.

"Because of threats, harrassment and intimidation" on the part of the company's representative, B. H. White, the Dubas contend they paid the amount demanded "notwithstanding such sums were not due."

The Dubas' petition further states that their agency was terminated by Montgomery Ward on Nov. 20 and the defendants refunded them $677.90 one time and an additional $150 which it ascertained as excess paid by the Dubas in the demand.

The Dubas contend a sum of $1,420.02 is actually due them.

The petition further alleges that White made a slanderous statement to both plaintiffs when he made the demand to their "embarrassment, humiliation and mental and emotional stress and pain."

The statement, for which they seek $50,000 in damages was, according to the petition:

"Harvey, you are nothing but a damned (sic) crook or embezzler and you, Sharon, were an accessory to the crime."

Callan Initiates Bill To Build New Bridge Across Missouri

Washington (AP)—Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb., reported Thursday he had introduced legislation to build a new bridge across the Missouri River near South Sioux City, Neb.

The bridge would be built as an extension of the Interstate Highway system

Callan said he has been "seeking an approach to this problem that would not require legislation, but the lack of state matching funds has prevented any approach other than as an extension of the Interstate."

The Nebraska congressman said the highway department of both Nebraska and Iowa object that use of state matching funds for construction of the bridge would take money needed for other purposes.

Sen. Curtis, R-Neb., has introduced similar legislation in the Senate

Callan said he hopes there can be hearings on his bill this fall.

Naming Of Inmate To Help Others Ready Appeals OKd

Federal District Judge Robert Van Pelt Thursday affirmed State Penitentiary Warden Maurice Sigler's naming of inmate David King to assist other inmates in preparing court appeals.

Judge Van Pelt said the warden's policy "does assure some assistance to every inmate" and King appears competent enough to handle the job.

The judge said Sigler "Has a right to deny the request of inmates to have a specific inmate appointed to assist them in the preparation of legal documents" but still must guarantee that inmates receive sufficient help.

"An inmate working in the area full time should develop considerable proficiency in giving assistance to other petitioners," said Judge Van Pelt in a memorandum which he said would cover several inmate petitions protesting King's appointment.

King, an Omahan imprisoned for armed robbery, was named to the new post after inmate Merle Burnside successfully protested Sigler's former policy of refusing to let any inmate help another with court appeals.

"The major concern of the courts is to see that petitions for writs of habeas corpus are sufficiently intelligible that the constitutional claims can be determined," Judge Van Pelt said

"Once an intelligible petition is presented, this court will assume the responsibility of scrutinizing the petition for any violation of the petitioner's constitutional rights."

Harvey Duba and Sharon K. Duba allege that on Nov. 5, 1965, two employes of the firm made a check of records of business operated by them for the defendant company and the manager of the catalog sales agency demanded $12,674.83 from them and threatened criminal prosecution if not paid.

"Because of threats, harrassment and intimidation" on the part of the company's representative, B. H. White, the Dubas contend they paid the amount demanded "notwithstanding such sums were not due."

The Dubas' petition further states that their agency was terminated by Montgomery Ward on Nov. 20 and the defendants refunded them $677.90 one time and an additional $150 which it ascertained as excess paid by the Dubas in the demand.

The Dubas contend a sum of $1,420.02 is actually due them.

The petition further alleges that White made a slanderous statement to both plaintiffs when he made the demand to their "embarrassment, humiliation and mental and emotional stress and pain."

The statement, for which they seek $50,000 in damages was, according to the petition:

"Harvey, you are nothing but a damned (sic) crook or embezzler and you, Sharon, were an accessory to the crime."

Naming Of Inmate To Help Others Ready Appeals OKd

Federal District Judge Robert Van Pelt Thursday affirmed State Penitentiary Warden Maurice Sigler's naming of inmate David King to assist other inmates in preparing court appeals.

Judge Van Pelt said the warden's policy "does assure some assistance to every inmate" and King appears competent enough to handle the job.

The judge said Sigler "Has a right to deny the request of inmates to have a specific inmate appointed to assist them in the preparation of legal documents" but still must guarantee that inmates recline sufficient help.

"An inmate working in the area full time should develop considerable proficiency in giving assistance to other petitioners," said Judge Van Pelt in a memorandum which he said would cover several inmate petitions protesting King's appointment.

King, an Omahan imprisoned for armed robbery, was named to the new post after inmate Merle Burnside successfully protested Sigler's former policy of refusing to let any inmate help another with court appeals.

"The major concern of the courts is to see that petitions for writs of habeas corpus are sufficiently intelligible that the constitutional claims can be determined," Judge Vàn Pelt said.

"Once an intelligible petition is presented, this court will assume the responsibility of scrutinizing the petition for any violation of the petitioner's constitutional rights."

Callan Initiates Bill To Build New Bridge Across Missouri

Washington (AP)—Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb., reported Thursday he had introduced legislation to build a new bridge across the Missouri River near South Sioux City, Neb.

The bridge would be built as an extension of the Interstate Highway system.

Callan said he has been "seeking an approach to this problem that would not require legislation, but the lack of state matching funds has prevented any approach other than as an extension of the Interstate."

The Nebraska congressman said the highway department of both Nebraska and Iowa object that use of state matching funds for construction of the bridge would take money needed for other purposes.

Sen. Curtis, R-Neb., has introduced similar legislation in the Senate.

Callan said he hopes there can be hearings on his bill this fall.

OFF

to Japan for a tour of duty

It is not too far from the Scott Air Force Base in Illinois to Lincoln. But it is a long, long way to Japan and that is where M/Sgt Bill Gaedke will be going on his new assignment.

Sgt. and Mrs. Gaedke and their two children now are in Lincoln, Mrs. Gaedke's home town, and from here they will drive to San Francisco where they will board a plane for Tokyo.

During their stay in Lincoln the four Gaedke's are the house guests of Mrs Gaedke's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Holscher, but they also are visiting her mother, Mrs. Marie Holscher—and her sister, Mrs. William Genthe. Also to be visited is another sister, Mrs. Dale Harms of Syracuse.

Since the arrival of Sgt. and Mrs. Gaedke and their children a few days ago, there have been numerous family parties at which the guest list included all of the relatives.

The visitors will spend another week in Lincoln before taking off for Japan where they will be stationed at Tachikawa

With Sgt. and Mrs. Gaedke in the picture are their daughter, Teresa, and their son Jeffery.

IN

the suburban areas

The past few days have given us a hint that Indian summer is just around the corner, but they also have tried to convince us that summer is still hanging on. Lincoln's suburban residents seemed to be convinced that regardless of the season there's still plenty of time for leisure, travel and entertaining guests, as well as welcoming new arrivals.

EASTBOROUGH

Tuesday marked the arrival of guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoffman who welcomed their granddaughter, Cindy Schwissinger of Brookfield, Wis., and her traveling companion, Penny Lietner of Elm Grove, Wis. The teen-agers traveled to Lincoln by train and will be visiting until Sunday when they make the return trip home.

Another recent arrival in Eastborough is Denise Renee Eickhoff, the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Eickhoff. The baby arrived on August 7 at 1:52 p.m. and she has received several visitors already. Among them were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eickhoff; her aunt, Miss Darlene Eickhoff, and her great aunt, Miss Dora Eickhoff, all of Falls City, who visited in Lincoln last week.

The Eickhoffs don't have a monopoly on the Eastborough baby market, however, for Mr. and Mrs. Dale Wells welcomed a new son, Anthony John, into the family circle on August 16. It's fortunate for the Wells that the baby was not a girl, for their other sons, Brad, 18, and Kevin, 15, vowed to leave home if such an event occurred, although their daughter, Kristi, 9, would have been delighted to have someone on her side, for a change.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Clark leave Lincoln on Monday for a short vacation trip. The Clarks will be dividing their time between Mr. Clark's brother, Dr. R. E. Clark, and his father, Dr. L. W. Clark, in Manchester, Iowa, and Mrs. Clark's mother, Mrs. Fena Fjelsted, in Colfax, Wis.

COUNTRY CLUB MANOR

Mr. and Mrs. Louis T. Shakelford and their daughters, Suzanne, 13, and Sally, 12, returned last week from a vacation trip to Iowa and Minnesota. In Iowa they visited the Amana Colonies and then they traveled to the Vacation Air resort on Island Lake near Park Rapids, Minn., for a week of water fun and relaxation.

Guests arrived on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Henkle. The guests are their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Henkle and their children, Jennifer, 8 months and Timothy, 3. The junior Henkles are residents of Palo Alto, Calif., and they will be dividing their three-week vacation time between Lincoln and visiting Mrs. Henkle's family in Oklahoma City.

BISHOP HEIGHTS

The Ivan Hoig residence is having the treat of a very young guest. The guest is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoig, of Omaha, who are having the treat of a retreat from two-year-old Oliver. Oliver's stay was prompted by the arrival of a new sister, Andrea Lynn, on July 18. He will be the guest of his grandparents until Sunday, when he'll be able to return and help his mother take care of his younger sister.

Oliver's aunt, Miss Cindy Hoig, leaves this weekend also, but for a vacation trip to Colorado rather than a short junket to Omaha. Traveling with Cindy will be another University of Nebraska coed—her cousin, Miss Carolyn Baird

PARK VALLEY HEIGHTS

Recent travelers are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Westrick, who spent a week's vacation at the cabin of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Wiedeman in Allen's Park, Colo. The Westrick children, Terry, Cathy and Tim, remained at home occupying their vacation time with neighborhood friends under the watchful eye of their grandmother, Mrs. Signa Westrick.

Prenuptial Courtesies

Entertaining for a late summer bride-elect and her fiance next Tuesday evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Knight, who will be host and hostess at dinner at their home honoring Miss Martha Anne Porter and Terry David Drayton.

Miss Porter and her fiance, whose wedding will be an event of Friday, Aug. 26, also will share honors at a dinner to be held Thursday evening when Mr. Drayton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Drayton of Orchard, will entertain following the wedding rehearsal. Members of the family have been invited to the dinner, which will be held in the party room of King's Buffet.

The bride-elect, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Porter, has chosen her sister-in-law, Mrs. Alan Porter of Aurora, Colo., as her matron of honor and only attendant for the ceremony, which will be solemnized at 8 o'clock in the evening in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church.

Tom Drayton of Fargo, N.D., will serve his brother as best man.

The soon-to-be bride is a former student at the University of Missouri in Columbia, and her fiance received his degree from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge.

Cecil Eanes read the lines of the 7:30 o'clock service at the First Presbyterian Church in Pueblo.

Honor attendants for their sister were Miss Ann Tallman and Miss Sally Tallman, and the bridesmaids were Miss Ronnie Richardson, Richmond, Va.; Miss Teal Ashly, Denver; Miss Cynthia Gulick, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Dorothy Peaker and Miss Judy Shanks, all of Pueblo.

Serving as best man was Lewis Quigg, and the ushers were Frank Tallman, Jr., James Moore, Ronald Yaklich, Robert Plute and James McKinney, all of Pueblo; and Gregory Edwards, Golden, Colo.

The bride, who is the granddaughter of Mrs. Frank Boehmer and Mrs. Ralph Tallman of Lincoln, chose Rose point lace and satin in traditional white for her wedding gown.

The couple will reside in Cheyenne, Wyo., where the bridegroom is stationed at Warren Air Force Base. Mr. and Mrs. Gulick are former students at Southern Colorado State College, and the bride attended Christian College, Columbia, Mo.

ABBY

it was YOU she had on her mind

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I met a very attractive divorcee at the home of a mutual friend the other evening. She is a very lively and amusing type, and I liked her immediately. Before I had an opportunity to ask her if I could see her again she said to me, "I am giving a cocktail party at my apartment tomorrow night at seven, would you care to come?"

Naturally I accepted on the spot. When I got there I found her all alone. And she hadn't invited anyone else. What do you think she had in mind? RON

DEAR RON: You.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: Would you be kind enough to advise me as to the following: Is it customary to give a gift to the bride and groom after they have been married for the second time — to EACH OTHER? I was not invited to the wedding.

A RELATIVE

DEAR RELATIVE: I think not. It is difficult to imagine that one would be expected.

DEAR ABBY: Last month our church auxillary held its annual luncheon and tickets were sold for $2.50. At the bottom of each ticket was printed DOOR PRIZE. I sold two tickets to a member who said she would be unable to attend, but requested that I drop her stubs into the box for the door prize. I did. Her number was drawn and when I stepped forward to claim the prize for her, a burst of objection went up in the crowd!

Some women insisted that in order to win the door prize the holder of the number had to be present. Not wishing to create a worse scene, I sat down and let them draw another number. The second number was held by a woman who was present so she got the prize. In your opinion was this fair? Do you think a person has to be present in order to win the door prize?

TOO REFINED TO FIGHT

DEAR .TOO .REFINED: When a door prize is offered, it should be clearly stated on the ticket whether or not the holder of the number drawn need be present to win.

I personally would assume that in order to win I would have to be present. But I'm sure there are an equal number of people who would assume the opposite. This is a good question for a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I do not share your sympathy with those who say they are sorry their parents did not "force them" to practice the piano, violin, trombone, or any other musical instrument when they were young. There is no reason why a normal adult cannot continue his musical studies if he has sufficient interest and determination. One is never "too old" to learn.

As for myself, I make no apologies. I suffered thru seven miserable years of piano lessons, which terminated in a great disappointment to my parents. I never touch the piano today, and avoid piano recitals like the plague. PIANOITIS

BIDDING QUIZ

You are South, neither side vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1♥	2♣	?

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠7 ♥K9653 ♦84 ♣AQ942
2. ♠Q974 ♥J83 ♦KQ75 ♣AQ
3. ♠AKJ53 ♥J94 ♦96 ♣852
4. ♠A962 ♥62 ♦AK3 ♣10754
5. ♠A853 ♥Q9 ♦A642 ♣863

1. Four hearts. There is no doubt you can murder East at two clubs, but it is next to impossible for two clubs doubled to be the final contract. With 12 spades and 11 diamonds missing, you can feel sure that the opponents have a better trump suit than clubs.

It is better to bid four hearts than three because there is a good chance that the opponents can sacrifice profitably in spades or diamonds, and the jump to four is more apt to block out the save.

2. Three notrump. This is the easiest way of identifying the distribution and high-card point count. Three notrump in this sequence shows 13 to 15 high-card points, notrump distribution and a double stopper in clubs. It is therefore a highly descriptive bid. If North has a hand unsuitable for notrump play, he is free to go on in hearts or any other suit.

3. Two hearts. There is a temptation to bid two spades, which would force partner to bid again, but it is better to settle for two hearts, which partner is free to pass. If he does pass, game chances are likely to be poor. A two spade bid might get the bidding too high if it turned out that North had a minimum opening bid.

4. Double. Game is by no means certain and the best action is to try to exact a penalty from East. Our three high-card tricks added to North's presumed three defensive tricks, plus the prospect of one or two trump tricks, indicate that East will have a tough time trying to make two clubs. North will naturally expect better trumps for the double, but we make up for this in other ways.

5. Two hearts. It is rare to raise partner with only two trumps, but the alternative bids—double, pass, two diamonds or two spades—are all less attractive. This is one of those cases where any bid you make is technically wrong, and the only thing to do is use your best judgment in choosing the bid you think is least wrong.

You're a trump short for the two heart bid, but there are compensating values in the form of 10 high-card points. If partner passes, you're probably in the best spot; if he bids again, you will almost surely make game.

Before I had an opportunity to ask her if I could see her again she said to me, "I am giving a cocktail party at my apartment tomorrow night at seven, would you care to come?"

Naturally I accepted on the spot. When I got there I found her all alone. And she hadn't invited anyone else. What do you think she had in mind? RON

DEAR RON: You.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: Would you be kind enough to advise me as to the following: Is it customary to give a gift to the bride and groom after they have been married for the second time — to EACH OTHER? I was not invited to the wedding.

A RELATIVE

DEAR RELATIVE: I think not. It is difficult to imagine that one would be expected.

DEAR ABBY: Last month our church auxiliary held its annual luncheon and tickets were sold for $2.50. At the bottom of each ticket was printed DOOR PRIZE. I sold two tickets to a member who said she would be unable to attend, but requested that I drop her stubs into the box for the door prize. I did. Her number was drawn and when I stepped forward to claim the prize for her, a burst of objection went up in the crowd!

Some women insisted that in order to win the door prize the holder of the number had to be present. Not wishing to create a worse scene, I sat down and let them draw another number. The second number was held by a woman who was present so she got the prize. In your opinion was this fair? Do you think a person has to be present in order to win the door prize?

TOO REFINED TO FIGHT

DEAR TOO REFINED: When a door prize is offered, it should be clearly stated on the ticket whether or not the holder of the number drawn need be present to win.

I personally would assume that in order to win I would have to be present. But I'm sure there are an equal number of people who would assume the opposite. This is a good question for a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I do not share your sympathy with those who say they are sorry their parents did not "force them" to practice the piano, violin, trombone, or any other musical instrument when they were young. There is no reason why a normal adult cannot continue his musical studies if he has sufficient interest and determination. One is never "too old" to learn.

As for myself, I make no apologies. I suffered thru seven miserable years of piano lessons, which terminated in a great disappointment to my parents. I never touch the piano today, and avoid piano recitals like the plague. PIANOITIS

BIDDING QUIZ

You are South, neither side vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1♥	2♣	?

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠7 ♥K9653 ♦84 ♣AQ942
2. ♠Q974 ♥J83 ♦KQ75 ♣AQ
3. ♠AKJ53 ♥J94 ♦96 ♣852
4. ♠A962 ♥62 ♦AK3 ♣10754
5. ♠A853 ♥Q9 ♦A642 ♣863

1. Four hearts. There is no doubt you can murder East at two clubs, but it is next to impossible for two clubs doubled to be the final contract. With 12 spades and 11 diamonds missing, you can feel sure that the opponents have a better trump suit than clubs.

It is better to bid four hearts than three because there is a good chance that the opponents can sacrifice profitably in spades or diamonds, and the jump to four is more apt to block out the save.

2. Three notrump. This is the easiest way of identifying the distribution and high-card point count. Three notrump in this sequence shows 13 to 15 high-card points, notrump distribution and a double stopper in clubs. It is therefore a highly descriptive bid. If North has a hand unsuitable for notrump play, he is free to go on in hearts or any other suit.

3. Two hearts. There is a temptation to bid two spades, which would force partner to bid again, but it is better to settle for two hearts, which partner is free to pass. If he does pass, game chances are likely to be poor. A two spade bid might get the bidding too high if it turned out that North had a minimum opening bid.

4. Double. Game is by no means certain and the best action is to try to exact a penalty from East. Our three high-card tricks added to North's presumed three defensive tricks, plus the prospect of one or two trump tricks, indicate that East will have a tough time trying to make two clubs. North will naturally expect better trumps for the double, but we make up for this in other ways.

5. Two hearts. It is rare to raise partner with only two trumps, but the alternative bids—double, pass, two diamonds or two spades—are all less attractive. This is one of those cases where any bid you make is technically wrong, and the only thing to do is use your best judgment in choosing the bid you think is least wrong.

You're a trump short for the two heart bid, but there are compensating values in the form of 10 high-card points. If partner passes, you're probably in the best spot; if he bids again, you will almost surely make game.

Ettinger Aide Fears Stacked Deck

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Kearney—The attorney for William Ettinger said Thursday he is "not going to take my client into a hearing if it is, in effect, a stacked deck."

Attorney Robert Munro said an investigative report by the Nebraska Safety Patrol is not enough.

"They (State of Nebraska) must come in and try to substantiate their report with witnesses that can be cross-examined by us," Munro said.

"It's up to the state to prove its report, not for us to disprove it."

Ettinger, former Kearney Boys' Training School superintendent, was fired earlier this month by State Institutions Director George Morris for alleged official misconduct in disciplining five boys at the school.

Morris said Ettinger was fired because he placed five boys caught engaging in homosexual activity in a room and told them to continue. Ettinger has publicly denied the charge.

Morris has set the hearing, requested by Ettinger, for Aug. 31 and said the attorney general's office would present the state's case.

Munro said he has reviewed the Safety Patrols report of its investigation of the incident.

He agreed with Attorney General Clarence Meyer that the report's contents should not be publicly released in advance of the scheduled hearing.

Munro indicated the report may appear damaging on its face, but added:

"That is why I want the witnesses to tell their stories under oath and be subject to cross-examination as to their veracity and knowledge of the alleged incident."

Dworak Tightens Security At State Tax Office

By Associated Press

State Tax Commissioner George Dworak said Thursday he has instituted tighter security measures for his office, which can receive as much as $2 million in tax receipts in a single day.

Dworak said the number of employes handling state warrants and checks has been reduced from 46 to five, permitting stricter management control of receipts, and employe bond coverage has been increased.

He said the direct reponsibility for depositing revenue for the entire tax commissioner's office now rests with two persons, whereas before "nearly every person in the Motor Fuels Division as well as the tax commissioner's office was handling funds."

In addition, each check and warrant received by the tax commissioner's office is machine validated and microfilmed, and checks and warrants are deposited with the state treasurer daily, he said.

Dworak said added precautions have also been taken to protect the confidentiality of sales transactions, stockholder listings and other information helpful to taxing officials.

"The new security measures were not prompted by any trouble in our office," he said. "We just think it's a good business practice."

Under a 1965 law, the responsibility for gasoline, special fuel, cigarette, bingo and severance tax collections rests with the tax commissioner.

The Volkswagen Squareback Sedan.
Any questions?

1. How much?
For you, $2409.90 Plus $2534.90 for a steel sunroof, if you like.

2. It looks bigger than the beetle. Is it?
Yes. Outside and in. Outside, it's only 6 inches longer. But inside, there's room for 5. Or, you can fold down the rear seat and carry 2 people plus 42.4 cubic feet of things. (More than the trunks in the biggest sedans.) A full-sized bed slides in. There's also 6.5 more cubic feet of trunk space under the hood.

3. How many miles to the gallon?
About 28, on regular gas.

4. Is it more powerful than the regular Volkswagen?
A touch. The Squareback can beat the beetle at a stoplight, and has a higher top speed, too. (84 mph vs. 75)

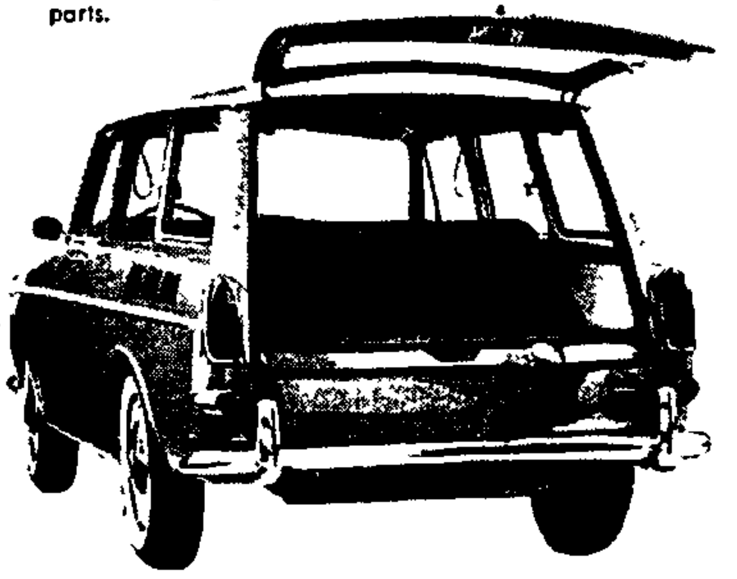
5. Same kind of engine?
Yes: air-cooled (so it can't freeze up or boil over) and in the back (for good traction in bad weather).

6. Same kind of suspension?
Yes: each wheel has its own independent torsion bar. So when one wheel hits a bump, only one wheel hits a bump.

7. Same kind of stick shift?
Yup: same kind of stick shift. Four forward speeds. Synchromesh in all four gears.

8. Isn't anything different?
The list is endless. The Squareback has disc brakes in front, for example. You can check the oil without even looking at the engine. Inside door handles are recessed so you won't catch your clothing. There are 49 seating positions. Plus a padded dashboard and padded cowling all around the instruments. Big pockets on both doors to store all those glove compartment type things that never seem to fit in the glove compartment (like gloves). And (somewhat curiously for a company that once considered a gas gauge unnecessary) an electric clock.

9. What about parts and service?
Silly question. We've never sold cars where we couldn't service them. (Over 900 Volkswagen dealers had parts on hand long before they had the cars.) There is a Squareback shortage right now, but no shortage of Squareback parts.



10. It costs more than the beetle, but is it as good?
Car and Driver magazine says: "No one can fault this Volkswagen on quality of construction, no matter what standards they employ. No more solid amalgam of metals ever rode on four wheels and none likely ever will. Volkswagen has a hard-earned reputation for toughness and this one doesn't stand a chance of marring the family name . . . You simply can't buy a better-built, low-priced sedan."
Thank you for asking.

County Surveyors Must Be Paid On Salary Basis

The State Justice Department said Thursday county boards must pay county surveyors on a salary basis

The department, in an opinion for Saunders County Atty. Robert E. Sullivan of Wahoo, said a 1953 statutory change eliminated the method of paying county surveyors on a per diem basis.

A Stamp Collector? Then pictures and news of new and old Stamps in the "Sunday Journal and Star's "Stamp News" column is a must.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

The news is improving. Ever hear of the National Brotherhood of Bald-Headed Frenchmen?

Hold onto your hairpiece.

"Baldness is a sign of virility. Some of the greatest lovers of history have lost their hair at the very peak of their romantic lives.

"This fact was recognized by beautiful women who swarmed around them like bees surround the new-blooming flower . . ."

The Brotherhood of Bald-Headed Frenchmen met at dinner recently. And a famed French psychologist threw that speech in for openers.

The Brotherhood rose to their feet and cried:

"Vive la tete nue!"

They then sat down to eat the escargots and pinch the waitresses.

☆ ☆ ☆

This news did not affect the stock of Max Factor. Though baldness may drive beautiful dolls out of their beautiful minds, more and more men are buying hairpieces.

The industry is very serious about the business. Though only a half million American men now wear wall-to-wall top pieces, they expect such cover will become universally accepted.

"American men have accepted a number of personal aids, such as deodorants and lotions, that were not acceptable to them a generation ago," says the toupee industry spokesman.

At present only two men in 10, age 35, have full natural hair. The industry thinks jokes about baldness are a bad thing.

When they see a joke where a bald-headed man is called "Curly," they write a letter to the author.

They point out that it is a 5-to-1 shot the writer is short on noggin fur himself.

If TV or movies show a scene where a toupee blows off, they send a telegram. (Mack Sennett used to do this with hilarious results — the hairpiece landed on a lady's face like a beard. It killed us in the popcorn rows. But in those days we had hair to spare. "Get your hair cut," said our mothers. "You look like a mop!")

☆ ☆ ☆

The best thing about modern hairpieces is the glue. They make a special kind of adhesive.

It holds the topper on though the north wind doth blow up a storm.

It sticks even under the clawing caresses of impassioned women.

☆ ☆ ☆

Well, the Brotherhood of Bald-Headed Frenchmen will have nothing to do with such things.

"Wear your head with pride," says the president. "Bald-headed men are the most honest in the world."

(A Chinese proverb says: "Of 10 bald-headed men, nine are deceitful and the tenth is stupid.)

Wear it with pride, said the president. But be careful.

"Many bald-headed intellectuals can hardly find time to employ their talents since they are besieged constantly by charming but persistent women."

☆ ☆ ☆

He said there's a bald poet in Italy who hasn't written a line for years. And a bald painter in Spain is too worn out to lift a brush to canvas.

"Talent and love must be carefully mixed," said the president.

The diners cheered and the waitresses, pinched black and blue, served the coffee.

POSTCARD by

Stan Delaplane

The news is improving. Ever hear of the National Brotherhood of Bald-Headed Frenchmen?

Hold onto your hairpiece.

"Baldness is a sign of virility. Some of the greatest lovers of history have lost their hair at the very peak of their romantic lives.

"This fact was recognized by beautiful women who swarmed around them like bees surround the new-blooming flower . . ."

The Brotherhood of Bald-Headed Frenchmen met at dinner recently. And a famed French psychologist threw that speech in for openers.

The Brotherhood rose to their feet and cried:

"Vive la tete nue!"

They then sat down to eat the escargots and pinch the waitresses.

☆ ☆ ☆

This news did not affect the stock of Max Factor. Though baldness may drive beautiful dolls out of their beautiful minds, more and more men are buying hairpieces.

The industry is very serious about the business. Though only a half million American men now wear wall-to-wall top pieces, they expect such cover will become universally accepted.

"American men have accepted a number of personal aids, such as deodorants and lotions, that were not acceptable to them a generation ago," says the toupee industry spokesman.

At present only two men in 10, age 35, have full natural hair. The industry thinks jokes about baldness are a bad thing.

When they see a joke where a bald-headed man is called "Curly," they write a letter to the author.

They point out that it is a 5-to-1 shot the writer is short on noggin fur himself.

If TV or movies show a scene where a toupee blows off, they send a telegram. (Mack Sennett used to do this with hilarious results — the hairpiece landed on a lady's face like a beard. It killed us in the popcorn rows. But in those days we had hair to spare. "Get your hair cut," said our mothers. "You look like a mop!")

☆ ☆ ☆

The best thing about modern hairpieces is the glue. They make a special kind of adhesive.

It holds the topper on though the north wind doth blow up a storm.

It sticks even under the clawing caresses of impassioned women.

☆ ☆ ☆

Well, the Brotherhood of Bald-Headed Frenchmen will have nothing to do with such things.

"Wear your head with pride," says the president. "Bald-headed men are the most honest in the world."

(A Chinese proverb says: "Of 10 bald-headed men, nine are deceitful and the tenth is stupid.)

Wear it with pride, said the president. But be careful.

"Many bald-headed intellectuals can hardly find time to employ their talents since they are besieged constantly by charming but persistent women."

☆ ☆ ☆

He said there's a bald poet in Italy who hasn't written a line for years. And a bald painter in Spain is too worn out to lift a brush to canvas.

"Talent and love must be carefully mixed," said the president.

The diners cheered and the waitresses, pinched black and blue, served the coffee.

City Adds Library Funds To Budget

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Thursday added $112,000 to the 1966-67 budget to help finance construction of an addition to Bennett Martin Public Library.

Council members heeded pleas voiced at a public hearing Tuesday night by Lincoln Library Board members, director Charles other interested citizens to supply funds to match federal participation in building the needed addition.

During the final budget session the council approved the addition of $166,344 to what it had already okayed in excess of tax-supported expenditures proposed by Mayor Dean Peterson

That figure will be decreased, however, by some $70,000 in balances left over from the last fiscal year—an item which pleasantly surprised council members when revealed by Finance Director James Mallon.

Explaining the $70,000—an estimation Mallon commented that "expenditures are not running quite as high as anticipated, our receipts are higher and we have been getting a higher return on our invested funds."

The council action pushed the tax levy requirement close to 27 mills. Mayor Peterson had proposed a levy of 26.39 mills and previous council additions had increased the requirement to 26.51 mills.

Last year the levy was 25.50. The 1966-67 budget—including both tax-supported and self-sustaining accounts—will top $39.8 million. The tax-supported portion is $9 3 million.

Council members and the mayor over the past weeks strived to take a hold-the-line posture against increased city spending, citing a lack of revenue with which to finance projects considered worthy but not acutely needed during the next year.

One item cut was a proposal, not included in the mayor's budget, to spend $250,000 for a regional recreation center Instead, the council earmarked $5,000 for recreation center planning and survey work.

It was not decided whether the regional center or the centrally-located building concept will be followed.

"I think we're letting the kids down . . . this will just continue for another year," said Councilman John Comstock after the decision not to include funds for major recreation center construction.

Other additions to the budget approved by the council Thursday:

—Salary for an assistant recreation superintendent, $7,500.

—Renovation of fire stations at 23rd and O and 12th and F as neighborhood recreation centers $23,844.

—Funds to acquire land for new fire stations, $25,000.

Although Mallon estimated the 1966-67 city levy at 27 mills, he said the final figure will not be certain until corrected valuation data is received.

The council is expected to officially adopt the budget and mill levy next Friday.

NUMBER TWO

Defense Minster Marshal Lin Piao is now Red China's number two man, official sources indicated Thursday. The New China News Agency said the 59-year-old Lin occupied a position on the reviewing stand at a rally second only to Mao Tse-tung. Official accounts, monitored in Tokyo, said that Lin spoke at the rally in Peking on behalf of Mao. The accounts did not say why Mao did not speak for himself.

EqualOpportunity Chairman Wants Director By Oct. 1

State Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Chairman R. D. Andersen of Lincoln said Thursday he hopes an executive director for the commission can be hired by Oct. 1

Andersen said the commission will probably have to offer an annual salary of about $12,000, noting the Kansas commission is offering $14,000 in its search for a director.

The commission has given Andersen almost a free hand in setting the new director's salary

The commission authorized the hiring of an executive director after it came under some criticism for not progressing fast enough in investigating charges of discrimination in jobs

Orleans To Have New Post Office

By The Associated Press

The Post Office Department announced Thursday plans to acquire a new building in Orleans, Neb.

The announcement said the building, constructed privately for lease to the government, will have about 2,000 square feet of floor space and 3,900 square feet of parking space for postal vehicles

It will be built on the north side of Maple Street between Orleans and Harlan avenues.

Court Asked For Tax Exemption By Boys Ranch

Attorneys for the Lariat Boys Ranch near Stapelton asked the State Supreme Court Thursday to declare the Sandhills facility tax exempt.

They said the private ranch for delinquent and emotionally disturbed children is "clearly charitable and operates at a loss."

The Logan County Board of Commissioners ruled that the operation was not tax exempt, but District Court Judge Hugh Stuart granted tax exemption to ranch buildings and 200 acres of land.

The attorneys contended that the ranch is "an educational and charitable organization, that the entire 1,000 acre ranch is devoted to the attainment of these purposes, and that no gain or profit results from this land."

Linda Berner Of Oxford Receives Doctors' Award

Linda Berner of Oxford was presented the Doctors' Award for making the most improvement in student nursing at graduation exercises of the Lincoln General Hospital nursing school Thursday evening.

Karol Burson of Ord was named student nurse of the year and was graduated with high distinction, as were Susan Umland of Eagle and Linda Welsh of Milford. Lida Tilley of Columbus was graduated with distinction.

The graduating class was composed of 33 women. The Rev. William Cross of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church spoke at the exercises.

Rural Traffic In Nebraska Continues Up

The State Roads Department said Thursday traffic on Nebraska's rural highways continues to increase, with the July volume 11% greater than the volume during the same month a year ago.

Rural traffic for the first seven months of this year showed a 10% increase over the same period in 1965, the department said.

The department said the major July traffic increases, when compared to a year ago, were a 102% gain on the county road north of Chappell, 21% on U.S. 138 at the Nebraska-Colorado line, 16% on U.S. 26 east of Scottsbluff, 15% on the interstate highway east of the Overton junction and 14% on State 4 west of Davenport.

A 19% decrease in traffic was registered on U.S. 30 west of Elm Creek, the department said.

For the year, the county road north of Chappell has shown the largest traffic increase, 32%, followed by 24% on State 4 west of Davenport and 22% on State 9 north of West Point.

Arthritis Remedy Writer Dr. Jarvis Dead In Vermont

Barre, Vt. (AP)—Dr. Deforest C. Jarvis, whose books, "Folk Medicine" and "Arthritis and Folk Medicine," rank high on all-time best selling lists, died Thursday at a nursing home where he had been a patient about two months.

Both volumes were based on home remedies handed down from generation to generation. Many of the cures he wrote about were derived from "honegar," a mixture of honey and apple cider vinegar, which he called the greatest medicine ever known.

Dr. Jarvis was born in Plattsburgh, N.Y., but spent most of his life in Vermont. He graduated from the University of Vermont Medical School. In 1910 he began practice as an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, and continued until earlier this year.

Survivors include his widow, the former Pearl Evans, and a daughter, Mrs. Sylvia Jarvis Smith of South Burlington, Vt.

Fletcher alleges he was damaged in the amount of $41,275 and filed separate suits in behalf of his 7-year-old and 12-year-old children, who were passengers in the car, in the amounts of $23,750 and $27,800, respectively.

Mrs. Fletcher is suing for $31,350 for injuries and damages she allegedly sustained as a passenger at the time of the accident.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Not The Same

While the nation's airline strike caused many hardships for many people, one of our chief grievances about the strike was that it robbed the children at Minneapolis' Shriners Crippled Children's Hospital of a visit that they look forward to every year.

A void is left in these children's summer because of the airline strike that kept the 66 high school Shrine Bowl football players and their coaches from making the trip to Minneapolis.

Shrine officials did the best they could under the circumstances, by bringing two outpatients from the hospital to Lincoln to meet the players. But this is not the same as a trip to the hospital itself.

The Children Will Know

Undoubtedly by now, many of the children at the hospital have heard from Mike Kelley and Susie Barron, the two youngsters who came to Lincoln, about many of the Shrine Bowl players.

And we also would guess that whatever conversations that were taking place in those hospital rooms when Mike and Susie walked in were pushed aside by talk of their trip.

Although none of the children in that hospital have ever seen Larry Lyons, we are sure they all feel he must be a great young man after hearing Susie tell of the football that the former Lincoln High athlete presented to her in Lincoln.

Mike has surely by now told every crippled child in the hospital about his handshakes and visits with the likes of Omaha Central's Joe Orduna, Randy Reeves of Omaha Benson, Doug Campbell of Lincoln Northeast, Dana Stephenson and Mike Bohaty of Lincoln Pius and others.

These children also have heard about the vast quantities of food consumed by the athletes who are playing for them Saturday afternoon at Nebraska's Memorial Stadium.

Gridders Also Cheated

But the crippled children weren't the only ones cheated by the airline strike.

Sure, the crippled little girl from Alexandria, Minn., didn't get to feel the rippling muscles of Geneva's Bob Gratopp.

And the boy with a club foot from Denison, Iowa, didn't get to climb on the shoulders of Pawnee City's Bob Mawhiney.

These are things the children missed this year.

But the 66 players who will be giving their all Saturday afternoon also were slighted this year. Rogers Smith of Bellevue, who will be throwing passes for the South Saturday, didn't get to see the boy from Minatare, Neb., who, because of a withered right arm, will never be able to throw a football the way Smith throws one.

Bob Loewenstein, the end from Grand Island, didn't get to huddle with the boy from Sioux Falls, S.D., who will never be able to catch a pass because he has two crippled hands.

Gale Williams, the hulking 251-pounder from Meadow Grove who'll be making tackles and throwing blocks for the North, didn't get to jostle the lad with no legs from Minot, N.D.

Both the boys and girls at the Crippled Children's Hospital and the strong young men who'll be in uniform Saturday afternoon missed a big part of the Shrine Bowl this year. But we are sure both have heard enough about each other that the same dedication will be present at Memorial Stadium that has been there the past seven years.

And the crippled children in Minneapolis Saturday afterhoon will have their thoughts in Lincoln, thinking ahead to that visit next summer from next year's crop of athletes.

Cage Coaches Get Jump On Season At NU Clinic

Nebraska's prep basketball coaches got a big jump on the season Thursday, picking up new techniques at the Nebraska Coaching School.

Basketball and wrestling were the primary topics on the opening day program in thec linic co-sponsored by the Nebraska School Activities Association and the University of Nebraska.

Registration topped the 300 mark for the school.

Marv Harshaman, head basketball coach at Washington State, led the sessions in basketball. Also conducting sessions were Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano and his staff.

Wrestling coaches heard from Stan Abel, former Big Eight and NCAA 130-pound champion at Oklahoma. He's now the wrestling coach at Putnam City High School in Oklahoma City.

North Platte's Crump Redding directed the day's only football session. He'll conduct another session today and two other sessions for football coaches will feature Earle Edwards of North Carolina State.

World Record Surprises 14-Year-Old Swimmer

. . . HOWEVER, CATIE'S COACH EXPECTED IT

Editor's Note—Don Bryant, sports information director at the University of Nebraska and former sports editor of The Lincoln Star, is serving as a special correspondent for The Star during the National AAU Swimming and Diving Championships at Woods Pool.

By DON BRYANT

So swift have swimmers become that record-breaking sprees don't really cause tremendous surprise or kick off noisy celebrations.

Of course, there is satisfaction, but the rather stoic approach to greatness was evident at the National AAU Championships at Woods pool Thursday.

When 14-year-old Catie Ball of Jacksonville, Fla., sprinted through the 100-meter breastroke prelims with a 1:16.3 she just happened to shatter the current listed records for the meet (1:17.1), Americans (1:17.1 and the world (1:16.5).

Perhaps it's because those of us in the pufferbelly class can't quite adjust to the reality that 13 and 14-year-old-kids are now capable of swimming rings around Eleanor Holm and Johnny Weismuller in their hey days. Or maybe it's because a Russian gal by the sneeze-sounding name of Galina Prozumenschikova has a mark of 1:15.5 pending.

But at any rate, Catie simply accepted a few quiet congratulations, smiled rather sheepishly and seemed just a bit embarrassed by all the fuss she'd caused reporters.

Even Catie's coach confessed he wasn't particularly surprised.

"A couple of weeks ago in a junior Olympics meet back home she did that well, so we sort of anticipated she might do well here," coach George F. Campbell said.

Young Miss Ball, a cute, 5-7, 120-pounder with shy eyes and a delightfully quiet manner, perhaps was really more excited than is customary in the sophisticated atmosphere of big-time swimming where improvement and record rewriting move at an unbelievably fast pace.

"I was just swimming as fast as I could," Cathie smiled, shaking her head. "I really wasn't trying to set a record, and I guess I was a little surprised."

She confided that she didn't think she'd broken any record after the race, while awaiting the times, because "it didn't feel like I'd done that well."

SCHOLLANDER WINS

...Olympic Champion Regains World Record

By KENT SAVERY

Don Schollander defeated defending 400-meter freestyle champion John Nelson with a world-record performance and was soon joined by three other competitiors who tied or broke existing world records on Thursday's opening of the 1966 National AAU Men's and Women's Outdoor Swimming and Diving Championships.

Schollander's 4:11.6 clocking at Woods Park Pool Thursday evening was two-tenths of a second faster than Nelson swam in leading qualifiers in the afternoon preliminaries. Nelson's 4:11.8, in turn, was four-tenths of a second under Schollander's existing world and American, record of 4:12.2.

Schollander, who never trailed in the race, opened his widest lead in the early stages as he zipped the first 100 meters in :59.8 to Nelson's 1:04.

However, Nelson put on a spurt in the second 100 meters and trailed Schollander by just six-tenths of a second as the Yale student hit the midway mark at 2:04.3.

Schollander widened his mark in the third 100 meters, hitting the three-quarter mark at 3:08.4 compared to Nelson's 3:09.6.

Nelson narrowed the gap again in the final fourth of the race but he was unable to catch the winner of four Olympic gold medals as Schollander won by six-tenths of a second to regain his world record before a cheering crowd of some 2400.

South Africa's sensational 13-year-old Karen Muir posted the top women's time of the day when she splashed to a world record of 2:26.4 in the 200-meter backstroke. Her time was a full second faster than the existing mark held by defending champion Cathy Ferguson of the Los Angeles Athletic Club who finished fourth.

Martha Randall, representing Philadelphia's Vesper Boat Club, equaled her world and American record with a 4:38 0 in the women's 400-meter freestyle. It was her second straight national 400 title and broke the meet record of 3:39.2 which she set last yar. Miss Randall will also defend in the 200 freestyle.

Catie Ball, a Florida lass competing unattached, upset defending champion Claudia Kolb with a 1:16.4 in the women's 100-meter breaststroke.

Miss Ball had gone 1:16.3 in the preliminaries. Both times are under the xisting world mark of 1:16.5 by Svetiana Babanina of the Soviet Union but short of the pending mark of 1:15.5 by Galina Prozumenschikova, also of the U.S.S.R. Miss Ball's 1:16.3, however, surpasses the American and meet record of 1:17.1 set by Miss Kolb in last year's National meet at Maumee, Ohio.

Benie Wrightson, winner of all three men's diving titles last year, defended his one-meter springboard title. The Denver, Colo., native who represents Dick Smith's Swim Gym scored 503.45 as Ken Sitzberger of the Indiana Aquatic Club took second at 498.45 Wrightson's teammate Keith Russell was third with 485.50.

University of Nebraska All-American diver Steve Sorenson of Omaha finished 24th.

Sue Gossick of Deauville, Cal., fourth-place finisher at the Tokyo Olympics and winner of this year's women's indoor three-meter diving title, added the outdoor crown, edging Joel O'Connell of the Santa Clara Swim Club, 456-50 to 456 40.

Defending champion Micki King of Ann Arbor, Mich., slipped to third

Santa Clara's Mark Spitz whipped Argentine teammate, world record holder and defending champion Louis Nicolao with a :58.1 in the 100-meter butterfly. Nicolao was third as Ross Wales of Ohio's Neptune Club took second after leading qualifiers with a :57.7 in the afternoon, just seven-tenths over Nicolao's world record.

Sue Pitt of the Scarlet Jet Swim Club, Highland Park, N. J., kept her 100-meter butterfly cornw, posting a 1:07.0 to edge Ellie Daniel of the Vesper Boat Club, and American and meet record holder Sharon Stouder of the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Kenneth Merten of the Los Angeles Athletic Club won wit comparative ease, turning in a 1:08.9 in the men's 100-meter breaststroke

Charles Hickcox of the Indiana Aquatic Club posted an easy victory in the men's 200-meter backstroke at 2:12.4.

The Santa Clara Swim Club took the lead in men's team competition with 36 points, followed by Indiana Aquatic Club at 31.

Philadelphia's Vesper Boat Club had a narrow 25-23 lead over the Santa Clara gals in the women's team standings.

De Witt (AP)—The Nebraska's Men's Softball Tourney opened Thursday night with Lincoln, Stanton and Nebraska City chalking up victories.

In the opener, Burmood of Lincoln whipped Barneston, 3-1. In the second game Stanton defeated Lincoln KOLN-KGIN, 7-1. And in the nightcap Nebraska City beat Dorchester, 5-1.

Pirates' Pagan Has 4 Errors

. . . METS SCORE 9-5 VICTORY

New York (AP)—Third baseman Jose Pagan's four errors, three of them in one inning to tie a National League record, opened the gates for six unearned runs and handed the New York Mets a 9-5 victory over the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday.

The defeat dropped Pittsburgh into a virtual tie for first with San Francisco. Pittsburgh has a one-point edge over the Giants.

Pagan's error in the first inning led to three unearned runs. The Mets got three more in the fourth when Pagan booted three plays to tie the NL record for errors by a third baseman in one inning. The major league record is four. The record for most errors by a third baseman in a game is six.

Four of the Pirates' runs came on homers

Bill Mazeroski clubbed two, Jerry May got the first of his major league career and Donn Clendenon hit his 20th. Mazeroski now has 11.

In the first inning, Pagan bobled leadoff batter Ron Hunt's grounder and got starter Woody Fryman into trouble. Cleon Jones drove in a run wiht a single and the other two came in on two-out doubles by Jim Hickman and Ron Swoboda.

Pagan committed his three errors in the fourth when the Mets scored three runs on one hit—Hunt's triple.

With Swoboda on first and two out, Pagan muffed pitcher Rob Gardner's grounder. Hunt then tripled for two runs. Pagan threw into the dirt on Ed Bressoud's grounder, scoring Hunt. On the next play, Pagan messed up Jones' slow roller for another error. Jones, however, was picked off first to end the inning.

Not The Same

While the nation's airline strike caused many hardships for many people, one of our chief grievances about the strike was that it robbed the children at Minneapolis' Shriners Crippled Children's Hospital of a visit that they look forward to every year.

A void is left in these children's summer because of the airline strike that kept the 66 high school Shrine Bowl football players and their coaches from making the trip to Minneapolis.

Shrine officials did the best they could under the circumstances, by bringing two outpatients from the hospital to Lincoln to meet the players. But this is not the same as a trip to the hospital itself.

The Children Will Know

Undoubtedly by now, many of the children at the hospital have heard from Mike Kelley and Susie Barron, the two youngsters who came to Lincoln, about many of the Shrine Bowl players.

And we also would guess that whatever conversations that were taking place in those hospital rooms when Mike and Susie walked in were pushed aside by talk of their trip.

Although none of the children in that hospital have ever seen Larry Lyons, we are sure they all feel he must be a great young man after hearing Susie tell of the football that the former Lincoln High athlete presented to her in Lincoln.

Mike has surely by now told every crippled child in the hospital about his handshakes and visits with the likes of Omaha Central's Joe Orduna, Randy Reeves of Omaha Benson, Doug Campbell of Lincoln Northeast, Dana Stephenson and Mike Bohaty of Lincoln Pius and others.

These children also have heard about the vast quantities of food consumed by the athletes who are playing for them Saturday afternoon at Nebraska's Memorial Stadium.

Gridders Also Cheated

But the crippled children weren't the only ones cheated by the airline strike.

Sure, the crippled little girl from Alexandria, Minn., didn't get to feel the rippling muscles of Geneva's Bob Gratopp.

And the boy with a club foot from Denison, Iowa, didn't get to climb on the shoulders of Pawnee City's Bob Mawhiney.

These are things the children missed this year.

But the 66 players who will be giving their all Saturday afternoon also were slighted this year. Rogers Smith of Bellevue, who will be throwing passes for the South Saturday, didn't get to see the boy from Minatare, Neb., who, because of a withered right arm, will never be able to throw a football the way Smith throws one.

Bob Loewenstein, the end from Grand Island, didn't get to huddle with the boy from Sioux Falls, S.D., who will never be able to catch a pass because he has two crippled hands.

Gale Williams, the hulking 251-pounder from Meadow Grove who'll be making tackles and throwing blocks for the North, didn't get to jostle the lad with no legs from Minot, N.D.

Both the boys and girls at the Crippled Children's Hospital and the strong young men who'll be in uniform Saturday afternoon missed a big part of the Shrine Bowl this year. But we are sure both have heard enough about each other that the same dedication will be present at Memorial Stadium that has been there the past seven years.

And the crippled children in Minneapolis Saturday afternoon will have their thoughts in Lincoln, thinking ahead to that visit next summer from next year's crop of athletes.

New York (AP)—Third baseman Jose Pagan's four errors, three of them in one inning to tie a National League record, opened the gates for six unearned runs and handed the New York Mets a 9-5 victory over the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday.

The defeat dropped Pittsburgh into a virtual tie for first with San Francisco. Pittsburgh has a one-point edge over the Giants.

Pagan's error in the first inning led to three unearned runs. The Mets got three more in the fourth when Pagan booted three plays to tie the NL record for errors by a third baseman in one inning. The major league record is four. The record for most errors by a third baseman in a game is six.

Four of the Pirates' runs came on homers.

Bill Mazeroski clubbed two, Jerry May got the first of his major league career and Donn Clendenon hit his 20th. Mazeroski now has 11.

In the first inning, Pagan bobled leadoff batter Ron Hunt's grounder and got starter Woody Fryman into trouble. Cleon Jones drove in a run wiht a single and the other two came in on two-out doubles by Jim Hickman and Ron Swoboda.

Pagan committed his three errors in the fourth when the Mets scored three runs on one hit—Hunt's triple.

With Swoboda on first and two out, Pagan muffed pitcher Rob Gardner's grounder. Hunt then tripled for two runs. Pagan threw into the dirt on Ed Bressoud's grounder, scoring Hunt. On the next play, Pagan messed up Jones' slow roller for another error. Jones, however, was picked off first to end the inning.

Three Ex-Huskers In Steelers' Camp

. . . VOSS, JETER, HOHN FIT PLANS

Kingston, R.I. (AP) — Pittsburgh never has won the National Football League championship and this does not look like the year to end the famine.

If Bill Austin wanted a challenge in his first head coaching job, he found it in the Steelers. Pittsburgh is coming off a last place season with a 2-12 record.

This is a ball club that came apart at the seams last season after Buddy Parker quit two weeks before opening day and handed the reigns to Mike Nixon. A limping quarterback, a punchless offense and an uninspired defense added to a rocky season.

Austin, an assistant at Green Bay and Los Angeles after a fine playing career with the New York Giants, is slowly bringing order out of chaos.

Problem No. 1 is quarterback. Bill Nelsen, tossed into a swim-or-sink situation last year with a bad leg, still is a question mark.

Although Nelsen's knee was severely damaged in an exhibition game last August, he played on the gimpy leg all season. Unable to set up properly for the pass, Nelsen was a sitting duck for the blitz. He threw only eight touchdown passes and ranked 15th among the quarterbacks.

Austin must find out if Nelsen, whose knee apparently is sound after an operation, can do the job. Tom Wade, so-so as a backup man last year, is behind Nelsen. Jack Stofa, an unknown who spent two years in the minors, also also is getting a look.

Austin beams when he talks about his receivers.

"We have five fine receivers who can play with anybody in the league," he said. The problem, of course, is to get the ball to them.

Gary Ballman at split end and Roy Jefferson at flanker are the starters, backed by Paul Martha, who may see some action as a defensive halfback. Jerry Simmonds and rookie J. R. Wilburn of South Carolina. John Hilton has come along nicely at tight end and Austin is looking at Tony Jeter, a Nebraska rookie acquired from Green Bay.

"I am worried about the offensive line," Austin admitted. "We have to get some consistency in moving the ball and also in protecting our quarterback. Last year they led the league in the number of times their quarterback was caught. Of course, Nelsen was limping but his protection was not good."

To bolster the offensive line, Austin dealt with Lombardi, his old boss, and got Jeter and Lloyd Voss, an interior lineman who was used on defense with the Packers. Voss goes into a guard job, while Mike Sandusky recuperates.

Mike Magac, former San Francisco lineman, has taken over the other guard position. Pat Killorin, No 3 draftee from Syracuse, is expected to press Art Hunter for the center job. Rookie Larry Gagner of Florida and ex-Ram Roger Pillath also are line candidates.

As an old guard and former line coach, Austin takes particular interest in his offensive line. So far, he has not been happy about the play of his veteran tackles, Charles Bradshaw and Dan James.

The departure of John Henry Johnson, who was released and then hooked on with Houston in the American Football League, leaves the running back chores to halfbacks Dick Hoak and Cannonball Butler and fullbacks Clarence Peaks and Mike Lind plus rookie Willie Asbury of Kent State, cut by Atlanta.

Johnson played in only one game last year because of knee trouble. Theron Sapp suffered a broken leg in camp and is out for weeks. Rookie Dick Leftridge is ailing.

Sluggish play by the defensive line hurt the Steelers last season but Austin has been pleased by the work of John Baker and Ben McGee, his defensive ends, in the early games. Ken Kortas, a towering giant from Louisville, has trained down to 280 and may shove Riley Gunnels or Chuck Hinton out of a tackle job.

Despite the trade of Myron Pottios to the Rams, the linebacking crew is solid with Gene Breen at Pottios' old middle job, flanked by John Campbell and Andy Russell, back after two years in the service. Bill Saul and Rod Breedlove are the extras.

Willie Daniels and Brady Keys will man the corners with Clendon Thomas (no longer an offensive end) and Jim Bradshaw at safety. Bobby Hohn, out with a dislocated hip, may move in on Daniel later in the year. Marv Woodson is the extra safety.

The retirement of guard Ray Lemek and end Lee Folkins and the loss of Bobby Sherman and Red Mack in the Atlanta expansion draft cut into the Steelers' stockpile.

Frank Lambert, a fine punter, will handle that job again and Mike Clark will do the place kicking.

—IS HE FOOTBALL PLAYER?—

Mackenzie Seeking One Answer At OU

Norman, Okla. (AP)—When Jim Mackenzie took over the reins of the sagging powerhouse at the University of Oklahoma, he asked one question as he went down the row of returnees and recruits.

"Is he a football player, or isn't he?"

And it is the answer to that question which will undoubtedly mean a lot to the Sooners' story for 1966.

But while the new OU coach is no pessimist, he's realistic enough to realize Rome wasn't built in a day. And the Sooners' 1966 schedule could weigh heavily on the measurement of Sooner success.

The non-conference foes are Oregon, Texas and Notre Dame.

But while Mackenzie hopes to pump some joy juice in the Sooners' not-too-potent offense of a year ago, he's not going to 'turn the Big Red into an aerial circus.

From the "I" formation, MacKenzie's attack will be more varied than the offense which never seemed to get started as the Sooners plowed to a 3-7 season a year ago.

"Probably the safest way to play football is to run with the ball and then try to get a balance between running and passing. I have stressed passing at Oklahoma because that's where we needed the most experience. Don't get me wrong . . . I believe in running," Mackenzie said.

Platoon football, using separate units on offense and defense, has brought about the recent trend to the air, Mackenzie believes. Platoon football also may be the answer to another Sooner problem—depth.

"We may not have great depth," Mackenzie said, "but in platoon football, this may not be a real problem. You don't get as tired and if we're fortunate and don't have many injuries, we may be okay."

Lacking from the Sooner attack, however, are two essentials to Mackenzie's view of a great football team: quickness and speed.

Even though he was satisfied with his ability to get to know his players during the spring, Mackenzie still is uncertain who will play where this fall.

"I don't know who my center, quarterback and fullback will be, and that cuts right up the middle of your offense. Strong side guard is also a question.

"Actually, we are not set anywhere. I've seen youngsters change their attitudes over the summer. There are disappointments and there are surprises. I hope we have a lot more pleasant surprises than we do disappointments."

At quarterback, Mackenzie can go with veteran Gene Cagle, or sophomores Jim Burgar and Bob Warmack. Chebon Dacon, a top performer during the spring, underwent knee surgery and is a question mark.

"I'm not counting on any of the boys who had operations," Mackenzie said. "I'd rather have them come through and surprise us than for us to count on them and suddenly find them gone."

Cagle, who handled quarterbacking chores last season, is the best runner of the threesome Mackenzie named. Burgar is the best passer but Warmack did the best job both ways.

The fullback probably will be sophomore Gary Harper, while senior Don Kindley is heading the list of centers.

Applications Closed For Teal Hunting

It is too late to apply for permits for the special teal season, Sept. 3-11.

Although requests are still coming in, they cannot be honored, the Game Commission reports. Deadline for applications was Aug. 3, and all permit forms had to be returned ot the federal government on that date.

Trout Fishing At Merritt Is Stopped

The honeymoon for trout at Merritt Reservoir near Valentine is over, reports the Game Commission.

The stocking of the cold-water species there was a gamble. There was always the possibility that conditions would make trout survival impossible. However, Commission fisheries technicians took the chance and introduced trout there. They felt that even a year of trouting there would make it worthwhile. Anglers got two years.

Trout, however, are touchy creatures. They require water temperatures below 70 degrees and at least five parts per million of oxygon. Merritt, which was built primarily for irrigation, qualified for awhile. But, this July, extremely hot weather, a decrease in dissolved oxygen, and irrigation releases combined to spell disaster for trout at Merritt.

Tests conducted on July 25 s' wed water temperatures from the surface to 70 feet deep was 78 degrees. Oxygen r[illegible]ngs dropped from 8 parts per million at 50 feet to well below 1 part per million at 75 feet. In a nutshell, where temperatures were such that the trout could survive the oxygen was not. The resulting heavy fish kill put an end to the trout fishery at Merritt.

Since the mai purpose for building Merritt is irrigation, recreational uses are added bonuses. About all that can be said is that it was good while it lasted. As construction of irrigation canals to draw from Merritt are now only partially completed, future drawdowns will probably be even greater. This, therefore, ends the chance for re-establishment of trout there.

New Tennis Facility Set For Omaha

Omaha (UPI)—Four indoor tennis courts to be located at Hanscom Park, including a tennis center, pro shop, locker and shower room facilities, would be completed by this winter, according to Michael B. Yanney, chairman of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce Parks and Recreation Committee.

Charles Christiansen, city parks and reaction director, said this recreation facility will be provided at no cost to the taxpayer.

The indoor tennis courts recommendation was ratified by the city council July 26.

Yanney's committee raised $70,000 seed money for the project and $35,000 is available to meet first and second year payments. The balance has been pledged over a 10-year period.

Yanney explained that the courts will cost an estimated $200,000 and will be financed by the Hanscom Park Indoor Tennis Corporation, a non-profit group.

Dodgers' Drysdale Tops Cards

Los Angeles (AP) — Jim Lefbvre drove in two runs with singles and Don Drysdale pitched a six-hitter as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated St. Louis, 3-1.

Lossr Bob Gibson allowed the Dodgers six hits in seven innings, one of them a bases-empty homer to Willie Davis.

Drysdale, 9-13, lost a shutout in the second inning when the Cards tied the score, 1-1, on singles by Orlando Cepeda, Charlie Smith and Julian Javier.

Davis hit his homer in the third inning putting the Dodgers ahead, 2-1. A single by Davis, an error by Dal Maxvill and a single by Lefbvre gave the Dodgers an unearned run in the sixth.

Errors Aid Houston's 5-4 Victory

Houston (AP) — Eighth inning errors by Tommy Helms and Pete Rose led to a pair of Houston runs that gave the Astros a 5-4 victory over Cincinnati Thursday.

Ron Davis led off the Houston eighth with a single and moved to second when Sonny Jackson was safe at first on Helms' throwing error. After a sacrifice, Rusty Staub was purposely walked and Bob Aspromonte grounded to Leo Cardenas who threw out Staub at second, with Davis scoring.

Rose then threw to third on the play trying to catch Jackson off the base, but the throw was wide and Jackson scored.

Johnny Edwards homered for the Reds in the fifth.

Trio Tie For Lead In Insurance City

. . . 59 BETTER THAN PAR

Hartford, Conn. (AP)—Homero Blancas, Art Wall Jr. and Wes Ellis Jr. led the assault on Wethersfield Country Club with 6-under-par 65s Thursday in the first round of the $100,000 Insurance City Open golf tournament.

Fifty-nine players, including three amateurs, were under the course standard of 71, and 15 more equalled it.

The previous best showing against par this year occurred last month at the Minnesota Classic, where 57 players were under par at the Keller Golf Club in St. Paul.

The 60th par breaker, amateur Dick Siderowf of Westport, Conn., was disqualified when he failed to sign his score card. Siderowf had been in a tie for fifth place at 67, two shots off the lead.

Blancas, 28, a former University of Houston player, sank putts of 20, 25, 35, and 25 feet in the best tournament start of his two years on the pro tour.

Arnold Palmer, at 68, said the bursitis in his left shoulder seemed to bother him less than it has in recent weeks.

U.S. Open champion Billy Casper shot a 69. Casper said he's a bit tired and will take a two-week rest from the tour after this tourney—missing the Whitemarsh tournament at Philadelphia and the Carling World in England.

McDowell Shuts Out White Sox

Cleveland (AP) — Chuck Hinton drove in both runs with a double and homer and Sam McDowell won his first game in almost two months as Cleveland blanked the Chicago White Sox 2-0 Thursday night.

McDowell, plagued with arm trouble most of the season, allowed only three hits and struck out eight in his first victory since July 1.

The game was scoreless until Larry Brown doubled with two out in the fifth. Leon Wagner singled and Hinton doubled Brown home putting the Indians ahead 1-0.

Hinton added the other run in the seventh when he hit his homer into the left field stands off loser Gary Peters.

Nebraska '9' Loses In Legion Meet

Bismarck, N.D. (AP)—Minnesota and Oklahoma scored first-round victories Thursday afternoon in the Region 6 American Legion Baseball Tournament.

North St. Paul, Minn., tipped Bellevue, Neb., 9-8, and Enid, Okla., blanked Rapid City, S.D., 3-0.

A run on two singles in the last of the eighth inning broke an 8-8 tie and gave North St. Paul its victory. Dennis Lindamood scored after walking, stealing second and coming home on a single by Dennis Hawkinson.

North St. Paul grabbed a 6-0 lead after three innings, but Bellevue came back to go ahead 7-6 with two in the fourth and five in the fifth.

Hawkinson had two doubles and a single in four trips, while Tom Garvey had a triple and single for Bellevue.

Three Ex-Huskers In Steelers' Camp

. . . VOSS, JETER, HOHN FIT PLANS

Kingston, R.I. (AP) — Pittsburgh never has won the National Football League championship and this does not look like the year to end the famine.

If Bill Austin wanted a challenge in his first head coaching job, he found it in the Steelers. Pittsburgh is coming off a last place season with a 2-12 record.

This is a ball club that came apart at the seams last season after Buddy Parker quit two weeks before opening day and handed the reigns to Mike Nixon. A limping quarterback, a punchless offense and an uninspired defense added to a rocky season.

Austin, an assistant at Green Bay and Los Angeles after a fine playing career with the New York Giants, is slowly bringing order out of chaos.

Problem No. 1 is quarterback. Bill Nelsen, tossed into a swim-or-sink situation last year with a bad leg, still is a question mark.

Although Nelsen's knee was severely damaged in an exhibition game last August, he played on the gimpy leg all season. Unable to set up properly for the pass, Nelsen was a sitting duck for the blitz. He threw only eight touchdown passes and ranked 15th among the quarterbacks.

Austin must find out if Nelsen, whose knee apparently is sound after an operation, can do the job. Tom Wade, so-so as a backup man last year, is behind Nelsen. Jack Stofa, an unknown who spent two years in the minors, also also is getting a look.

Austin beams when he talks about his receivers.

"We have five fine receivers who can play with anybody in the league," he said. The problem, of course, is to get the ball to them.

Gary Ballman at split end and Roy Jefferson at flanker are the starters, backed by Paul Martha, who may see some action as a defensive halfback, Jerry Simmonds and rookie J. R. Wilburn of South Carolina. John Hilton has come along nicely at tight end and Austin is looking at Tony Jeter, a Nebraska rookie acquired from Green Bay.

"I am worried about the offensive line," Austin admitted. "We have to get some consistency in moving the ball and also in protecting our quarterback. Last year they led the league in the number of times their quarterback was caught. Of course, Nelsen was limping but his protection was not good."

To bolster the offensive line, Austin dealt with Lombardi, his old boss, and got Jeter and Lloyd Voss, an interior lineman who was used on defense with the Packers. Voss goes into a guard job, while Mike Sandusky recuperates.

Mike Magac, former San Francisco lineman, has taken over the other guard position. Pat Killorin, No 3 draftee from Syracuse, is expected to press Art Hunter for the center job. Rookie Larry Gagner of Florida and ex-Ram Roger Pillath also are line candidates.

As an old guard and former line coach, Austin takes particular interest in his offensive line. So far, he has not been happy about the play of his veteran tackles, Charles Bradshaw and Dan James.

The departure of John Henry Johnson, who was released and then hooked on with Houston in the American Football League, leaves the running back chores to halfbacks Dick Hoak and Cannonball Butler and fullbacks Clarence Peaks and Mike Lind plus rookie Willie Asbury of Kent State, cut by Atlanta.

Johnson played in only one game last year because of knee trouble Theron Sapp suffered a broken leg in camp and is out for weeks. Rookie Dick Leftridge is ailing.

Sluggish play by the defensive line hurt the Steelers last season but Austin has been pleased by the work of John Baker and Ben McGee, his defensive ends, in the early games. Ken Kortas, a towering giant from Louisville, has trained down to 280 and may shove Riley Gunnels or Chuck Hinton out of a tackle job.

Despite the trade of Myron Pottios to the Rams, the linebacking crew is solid with Gene Breen at Pottios' old middle job, flanked by John Campbell and Andy Russell, back after two years in the service. Bill Saul and Rod Breedlove are the extras.

Willie Daniels and Brady Keys will man the corners with Clendon Thomas (no longer an offensive end) and Jim Bradshaw at safety. Bobby Hohn, out with a dislocated hip, may move in on Daniel later in the year. Marv Woodson is the extra safety.

The retirement of guard Ray Lemek and end Lee Folkins and the loss of Bobby Sherman and Red Mack in the Atlanta expansion draft cut into the Steelers' stockpile.

Frank Lambert, a fine punter, will handle that job again and Mike Clark will do the place kicking.

—IS HE FOOTBALL PLAYER?—

Mackenzie Seeking One Answer At OU

Norman, Okla. (AP)—When Jim Mackenzie took over the reins of the sagging powerhouse at the University of Oklahoma, he asked one question as he went down the row of returnees and recruits.

"Is he a football player, or isn't he?"

And it is the answer to that question which will undoubtedly mean a lot to the Sooners' story for 1966.

But while the new OU coach is no pessimist, he's realistic enough to realize Rome wasn't built in a day. And the Sooners' 1966 schedule could weigh heavily on the measurement of Sooner success.

The non-conference foes are Oregon, Texas and Notre Dame.

But while Mackenzie hopes to pump some joy juice in the Sooners' not-too-potent offense of a year ago, he's not going to turn the Big Red into an aerial circus.

From the "I" formation, MacKenzie's attack will be more varied than the offense which never seemed to get started as the Sooners plowed to a 3-7 season a year ago.

"Probably the safest way to play football is to run with the ball and then try to get a balance between running and passing. I have stressed passing at Oklahoma because that's where we needed the most experience. Don't get me wrong . . . I believe in running," Mackenzie said.

Platoon football, using separate units on offense and defense, has brought about the recent trend to the air, Mackenzie believes. Platoon football also may be the answer to another Sooner problem—depth.

"We may not have great depth," Mackenzie said, "but in platoon football, this may not be a real problem. You don't get as tired and if we're fortunate and don't have many injuries, we may be okay."

Lacking from the Sooner attack, however, are two essentials to Mackenzie's view of a great football team: quickness and speed.

Even though he was satisfied with his ability to get to know his players during the spring, Mackenzie still is uncertain who will play where this fall.

"I don't know who my center, quarterback and fullback will be, and that cuts right up the middle of your offense. Strong side guard is also a question.

"Actually, we are not set anywhere. I've seen youngsters change their attitudes over the summer. There are disappointments and there are surprises. I hope we have a lot more pleasant surprises than we do disappointments."

At quarterback, Mackenzie can go with veteran Gene Cagle, or sophomores Jim Burgar and Bob Warmack. Chebon Dacon, a top performer during the spring, underwent knee surgery and is a question mark.

"I'm not counting on any of the boys who had operations," Mackenzie said. "I'd rather have them come through and surprise us than for us to count on them and suddenly find them gone."

Cagle, who handled quarterbacking chores last season, is the best runner of the threesome Mackenzie named. Burgar is the best passer but Warmack did the best job both ways.

The fullback probably will be sophomore Gary Harper, while senior Don Kindley is heading the list of centers.

Applications Closed For Teal Hunting

It is too late to apply for permits for the special teal season, Sept. 3-11.

Although requests are still coming in, they cannot be honored, the Game Commission reports. Deadline for applications was Aug. 3, and all permit forms had to be returned ot the federal government on that date.

Trout Fishing At Merritt Is Stopped

The honeymoon for trout at Merritt Reservoir near Valentine is over, reports the Game Commission.

The stocking of the cold-water species there was a gamble. There was always the possibility that conditions would make trout survival impossible. However, Commission fisheries technicians took the chance and introduced trout there. They felt that even a year of trouting there would make it worthwhile. Anglers got two years.

Trout, however, are touchy creatures. They require water temperatures below 70 degrees and at least five parts per million of oxygon. Merritt, which was built primarily for irrigation, qualified for awhile. But, this July, extremely hot weather, a decrease in dissolved oxygen, and irrigation releases combined to spell disaster for trout at Merritt.

Tests conducted on July 25 showed water temperatures from the surface to 70 feet deep was 78 degrees. Oxygen readings dropped from 8 parts per million at 50 feet to well below 1 part per million at 75 feet. In a nutshell, where temperatures were such that the trout could survive the oxygen was not. The resulting heavy fish kill put an end to the trout fishery at Merritt.

Since the mai purpose for building Merritt is irrigation, recreational uses are added bonuses. About all that can be said is that it was good while it lasted. As construction of irrigation canals to draw from Merritt are now only partially completed, future drawdowns will probably be even greater. This, therefore, ends the chance for re-establishment of trout there.

New Tennis Facility Set For Omaha

Omaha (UPI)—Four indoor tennis courts to be located at Hanscom Park, including a tennis center, pro shop, locker and shower room facilities, would be completed by this winter, according to Michael B. Yanney, chairman of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce Parks and Recreation Committee.

Charles Christiansen, city parks and reaction director, said this recreation facility will be provided at no cost to the taxpayer.

The indoor tennis courts recommendation was ratified by the city council July 26.

Yanney's committee raised $70,000 seed money for the project and $35,000 is available to meet first and second year payments. The balance has been pledged over a 10-year period.

Yanney explained that the courts will cost an estimated $200,000 and will be financed by the Hanscom Park Indoor Tennis Corporation, a non-profit group.

Dodgers' Drysdale Tops Cards

Los Angeles (AP) — Jim Lefbvre drove in two runs with singles and Don Drysdale pitched a six-hitter as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated St. Louis, 3-1.

Lossr Bob Gibson allowed the Dodgers six hits in seven innings, one of them a bases-empty homer to Willie Davis.

Drysdale, 9-13, lost a shutout in the second inning when the Cards tied the score, 1-1, on singles by Orlando Cepeda, Charlie Smith and Julian Javier.

Davis hit his homer in the third inning putting the Dodgers ahead, 2-1. A single by Davis, an error by Dal Maxvill and a single by Lefbvre gave the Dodgers an unearned run in the sixth.

Errors Aid Houston's 5-4 Victory

Houston (AP) — Eighth inning errors by Tommy Helms and Pete Rose led to a pair of Houston runs that gave the Astros a 5-4 victory over Cincinnati Thursday.

Ron Davis led off the Houston eighth with a single and moved to second when Sonny Jackson was safe at first on Helms' throwing error. After a sacrifice, Rusty Staub was purposely walked and Bob Aspromonte grounded to Leo Cardenas who threw out Staub at second, with Davis scoring.

Rose then threw to third on the play trying to catch Jackson off the base, but the throw was wide and Jackson scored.

Johnny Edwards homered for the Reds in the fifth.

Suit Filed Over Feud In Little League Game

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—A little league baseball coach has filed a $50,000 damage suit against a rival coach as a result of a hotly contested game.

James Zartman alleges that Dale Dobney hit him after a game July 11 at a Phoenix grammar school. Zartman says he suffered a broken jaw and severly injured eye as a result.

Trio Tie For Lead In Insurance City

. . . 59 BETTER THAN PAR

Hartford, Conn. (AP)—Homero Blancas, Art Wall Jr. and Wes Ellis Jr. led the assault on Wethersfield Country Club with 6-under-par 65s Thursday in the first round of the $100,000 Insurance City Open golf tournament.

Fifty-nine players, including three amateurs, were under the course standard of 71, and 15 more equalled it.

The previous best showing against par this year occurred last month at the Minnesota Classic, where 57 players were under par at the Keller Golf Club in St. Paul.

The 60th par breaker, amateur Dick Siderowf of Westport, Conn., was disqualified when he failed to sign his score card. Siderowf had been in a tie for fifth place at 67, two shots off the lead.

Blancas, 28, a former University of Houston player, sank putts of 20, 25, 35, and 25 feet in the best tournament start of his two years on the pro tour.

Arnold Palmer, at 68, said the bursitis in his left shoulder seemed to bother him less than it has in recent weeks.

U.S. Open champion Billy Casper shot a 69. Casper said he's a bit tired and will take a two-week rest from the tour after this tourney—missing the Whitemarsh tournament at Philadelphia and the Carling World in England.

McDowell Shuts Out White Sox

Cleveland (AP) — Chuck Hinton drove in both runs with a double and homer and Sam McDowell won his first game in almost two months as Cleveland blanked the Chicago White Sox 2-0 Thursday night.

McDowell, plagued with arm trouble most of the season, allowed only three hits and struck out eight in his first victory since July 1.

The game was scoreless until Larry Brown doubled with two out in the fifth. Leon Wagner singled and Hinton doubled Brown home putting the Indians ahead 1-0.

Hinton added the other run in the seventh when he hit his homer into the left field stands off loser Gary Peters.

National Swim Meet A Reunion For Many

Editor's Note—Don Bryant, sports information director at the University of Nebraska and former sports editor of The Lincoln Star, has been retained by The Star as a special correspondent during the National AAU Swimming and Diving Championships at Lincoln's Woods Pool.

By DON BRYANT

It's reunion time for many people at Woods Park Pool where the 1966 National AAU Championships are nearing adrenalin time.

Workouts are under way now, with the full-scale competition starting Thursday.

Perhaps the happiest contestant after spotting a familiar face is Mario di Lucca, a 19-year-old 400-meter standout who hails from Santa Fe, Argentina.

Mario was all alone on his journey from the Pampas country to Lincoln, but the presence of a fellow-countryman and some local hospitality are making his stay a pleasant one.

Serving as friend and translator is Louis Nicolao, a native of Buenos Aires, Argentina, and an international swimming star who now attends Stanford University. Hosting Mario in their home are Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Wright.

Young Mario is a university student — he's a business student, majoring in economics — and currently is his country's 400-meter champion and record holder.

While Mario is a comparative newcomer to big-time competition, Louis is an old hand. Nicolao represented Argentina at the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

"I didn't do very well at Tokyo," Louis said apologetically. "I only finished ninth in the 200-meter butterfly."

He'll be competing in the 100 and 200 butterfly and the 100 freestyle event at Woods Park Pool. His best times in these events, respectively: :57 flat, 2:10 and :54 flat.

"It was good to see Mario again," Louis said. "We hadn't seen each other for about five months—not since the South American Games."

Louis reports all the heavy training is behind the Argentine duo.

"It has been a lot of hard work for about three months, but now we are just maintaining our condition—no heavy workouts in Lincoln," Louis said.

Another visitor—but certainly no stranger—to Lincoln who is having a number of reunions is Web Emery, former Lincoln High and University of Nebraska swimming coach.

A Lincoln native, Web is now the athletic director at Cal Tech in Pasadena, Calif.

"We are among the last of the amateurs in college athletics, and we play more games in the Rose Bowl than any other team," Emery quipped.

"Our scholarship program is limited—so limited that we don't have any, and our football team plays all its home games in the Rose Bowl."

In addition to his AD duties, Web also serves as swimming and water polo coach.

One of his team members at Cal Tech is Greg Wright of Lincoln, the former Southeast High star who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Wright.

"We don't have any of our swimmers entered in the National AAU," Emery said. "I'm here for meetings, and as a spectator and to see some old friends."

Trick-Shot Golf Artist Plans To Bomb Viet Cong

New York (AP)—Paul Hahn is preparing to attack the Communist Viet Cong with one of capitalism's most bourgeois weapons-golf balls.

For two weeks, beginning Sept. 24, the famed trick-shot artist will pelt the balls—50 dozen of them, 600 in all, inscribed with the word Peace—into the infested jungles.

Then he'll sit back and watch the fun.

"I hardly expect it to change the course of the war," the handsome entertainer said Thursday. "But I'll tell you one thing—it'll drive those fellows batty."

Hahn's primary purpose in visiting Viet Nam is to entertain Uncle Sam's military men there with his clever and remarkable repertoire that has fascinated golfers and non-golfers through the world.

"I'll give my show and then belt the balls into the thickets," Hahn explained. "These all will be brand new, tournament type balls that sell for a buck and a quarter retail in the United States. They won't be cut-up mullets. They will have been struck only once.

"But nobody will dare shag them. And I doubt if the Viet Cong would get near one of them. They'd think they were a booby-trap for sure.

"If anyone does pick up a ball, he'll find the word Peace written on it. It may start him thinking. Maybe the Viet Cong all will desert and come over here to be caddies."

The dark, curly-haired Hahn has not lacked for imagination or enterprise since he quit the tour in 1948 — "I didn't make enough money to mark my ball," he says—and turned to the entertainment phase of the game.

Hahn carries a bag that weighs 90 pounds. He hits perfect shots with garden rakes. He swings shafts made of rubber hose. He hits 225 yard drives, standing on one foot, on his knees and with one foot on a folding chair. With rare precision, he picks off three balls swinging on a string like a pendulum.

Once he used to drive balls off the teeth of pretty helpers while blindfolded, but had to give this up when others attempted the feat and fractured a few jaws.

"If I could get a Viet Cong to submit, I might reinstitute it in my act," Hahn said.

Genoa Archer Lands State Record Catfish

Rick Christensen of Genoa holds the new state bow and arrow flathead catfish catch record, the State Game Commission announced Thursday.

Christensen landed a 36-pound, 4-ounce cat in a drainage ditch near his home on Wednesday. It measured 41¼ inches long and 27½ inches around. It surpassed the old mark by more than 26 pounds.

Crete (UPI)—Short practice sessions marked Thursday's drills at the South Shrine Camp at Doane College here.

The coaching staff sent its charges through some drills to perfect their offensive game and timing. Punt coverage and returns also were given time during the morning workout.

In the afternoon time was spent on both offensive and defensive plays, with emphasis on pass defense.

Dana Stephenson and Mike Bohaty, both from Lincoln Pius, were listed as uncertain starters for the Saturday game by coach Bill James.

Stephenson has been plagued by a knee injury received earlier in the summer and aggravated at practice here. Bohaty has a shoulder injured in practice at the South camp and which is improving slowly.

Top Action Slated On Friday Program

. . . DIVING AT 9:30 A.M.

Friday's competition in the National AAU Swimming and Diving Meet promises to be some of the most exciting in the four days of the tourney.

Last year the defending champion Santa Clara (Calif.) Swim Club picked up most of its points in the second day and almost completely dominated.

Bernie Wrightson of the Dick Smith Swim Gym will defend his three-meter diving title and Joel O'Connell of Santa Clara will be back as the diver to beat in the women's one-meter.

Diving preliminaries begin at 9:30 a.m. with finals set for 4:30 p.m.

Swimming events set Friday are men's and women's 200-meter freestyles, 400-meter individual medleys and 400-meter freestyle relays.

The men's 200-meter freestyle should be wide open with Santa Clara's Gary Ilman, the defending champ, not back. Don Schollander is an odds-on favorite in this event. It's his specialty.

Martha Randall of the Vesper Boat Club has a pending world record in the women's 200-meter freestyle. She's also defending champ and will be tough to beat.

Santa Clara's Dick Roth is back in the men's 400-meter individual medley and will attempt to retain the top honors he won in the event last year.

The women's 400-meter individual medley shapes up as a real dogfight. Mary Ellen Olcese, a pretty 15-year-old, won it last year, but it was close with Patty Caretto, Sharon Finneran and Cathy Ferguson close behind.

In the men's 400-meter free relay, you have to go with Santa Clara. The Californians have all relay members back except Ilman and he'll be replaced by a guy named Schollander.

It's the same story in the women's 400-meter free relay with Santa Clara again defending champ and missing only two of the four who copped top honors last year. Vesper Boat Club will be on their heels, however.

Swimming prelims start at 12:30 p.m. with finals at 7:30 p.m.

Twins Pull Triple Play In 6-2 Win

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP)—The Minnesota Twins uncorked the first triple play in their six-year history Thursday, riding the four-hit pitching of Jim Grant to a 6-2 victory over California.

Second baseman Cesar Tovar batted in four of the runs.

The triumph gave the Twins a sweep of a four-game series and was Minnesota's sixth straight over the Angels after California ran up an 11-1 advantage the first half of the season.

The triple play came in the second inning after Norm Siebern doubled and Ed Kirkpatrick walked. Frank Malzone grounded to third baseman Rich Rollins, and the Twins got the triple play around the horn—Rollins to second baseman Cesar Tovar to first baseman Harmon Killebrew.

Seibern also singled off Grant in the fifth inning. Grant, now 10-13, turned in his ninth complete game in 29 starts.

Grant lost his shutout in the seventh when the Twins committed two errors and Jay Johnstone singled. The run was unearned. Grant got out of the inning by getting Malzone to hit into a double play.

A home run by Jim Fregosi in the ninth accounted for the Angels' second run.

Los Angeles (AP) — Doctors said Thursday that Marlin McKeever, Los Angeles Ram end who lost his right ring finger Wednesday in an auto accident, probably will play football again this season.

The accident was the second to hit the McKeever family in a year. Last winter, brother Mike McKeever was injured in a car accident and now lies helpless in a rest home with head injuries suffered in that accident.

McKeever was riding in a car driven by quarterback Roman Gabriel when it struck a parked vehicle in Costa Mesa, Calif.

National Swim Meet A Reunion For Many

Editor's Note—Don Bryant, sports information director at the University of Nebraska and former sports editor of The Lincoln Star, has been retained by The Star as a special correspondent during the National AAU Swimming and Diving Championships at Lincoln's Woods Pool.

By DON BRYANT

It's reunion time for many people at Woods Park Pool where the 1966 National AAU Championships are nearing adrenalin time.

Workouts are under way now, with the full-scale competition starting Thursday.

Perhaps the happiest contestant after spotting a familiar face is Mario di Lucca, a 19-year-old 400-meter standout who hails from Santa Fe, Argentina.

Mario was all alone on his journey from the Pampas country to Lincoln, but the presence of a fellow-countryman and some local hospitality are making his stay a pleasant one.

Serving as friend and translator is Louis Nicolao, a native of Buenos Aires, Argentina, and an international swimming star who now attends Stanford University. Hosting Mario in their home are Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Wright.

Young Mario is a university student — he's a business student, majoring in economics — and currently is his country's 400-meter champion and record holder.

While Mario is a comparative newcomer to big-time competition, Louis is an old hand. Nicolao represented Argentina at the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

"I didn't do very well at Tokyo," Louis said apologetically. "I only finished ninth in the 200-meter butterfly."

He'll be competing in the 100 and 200 butterfly and the 100 freestyle event at Woods Park Pool. His best times in these events, respectively: :57 flat, 2:10 and :54 flat.

"It was good to see Mario again," Louis said. "We hadn't seen each other for about five months—not since the South American Games."

Louis reports all the heavy training is behind the Argentine duo.

"It has been a lot of hard work for about three months, but now we are just maintaining our condition—no heavy workouts in Lincoln," Louis said.

Another visitor—but certainly no stranger—to Lincoln who is having a number of reunions is Web Emery, former Lincoln High and University of Nebraska swimming coach.

A Lincoln native, Web is now the athletic director at Cal Tech in Pasadena, Calif.

"We are among the last of the amateurs in college athletics, and we play more games in the Rose Bowl than any other team," Emery quipped.

"Our scholarship program is limited—so limited that we don't have any, and our football team plays all its home games in the Rose Bowl."

In addition to his AD duties, Web also serves as swimming and water polo coach.

One of his team members at Cal Tech is Greg Wright of Lincoln, the former Southeast High star who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Wright.

"We don't have any of our swimmers entered in the National AAU," Emery said. "I'm here for meetings, and as a spectator and to see some old friends."

Trick-Shot Golf Artist Plans To Bomb Viet Cong

New York (AP)—Paul Hahn is preparing to attack the Communist Viet Cong with one of capitalism's most bourgeois weapons-golf balls.

For two weeks, beginning Sept. 24, the famed trick-shot artist will pelt the balls—50 dozen of them, 600 in all, inscribed with the word Peace—into the infested jungles.

Then he'll sit back and watch the fun.

"I hardly expect it to change the course of the war," the handsome entertainer said Thursday. "But I'll tell you one thing—it'll drive those fellows batty."

Hahn's primary purpose in visiting Viet Nam is to entertain Uncle Sam's military men there with his clever and remarkable repertoire that has fascinated golfers and non-golfers through the world.

"I'll give my show and then belt the balls into the thickets," Hahn explained. "These all will be brand new, tournament type balls that sell for a buck and a quarter retail in the United States. They won't be cut-up mullets. They will have been struck only once.

"But nobody will dare shag them. And I doubt if the Viet Cong would get near one of them. They'd think they were a booby-trap for sure.

"If anyone does pick up a ball, he'll find the word Peace written on it. It may start him thinking. Maybe the Viet Cong all will desert and come over here to be caddies."

The dark, curly-haired Hahn has not lacked for imagination or enterprise since he quit the tour in 1948 — "I didn't make enough money to mark my ball," he says—and turned to the entertainment phase of the game.

Hahn carries a bag that weighs 90 pounds. He hits perfect shots with garden rakes. He swings shafts made of rubber hose. He hits 225 yard drives, standing on one foot, on his knees and with one foot on a folding chair. With rare precision, he picks off three balls swinging on a string like a pendulum.

Once he used to drive balls off the teeth of pretty helpers while blindfolded, but had to give this up when others attempted the feat and fractured a few jaws.

"If I could get a Viet Cong to submit, I might reinstitute it in my act," Hahn said.

Genoa Archer Lands State Record Catfish

Rick Christensen of Genoa holds the new state bow and arrow flathead catfish catch record, the State Game Commission announced Thursday.

Christensen landed a 36-pound, 4-ounce cat in a drainage ditch near his home on Wednesday. It measured 41¼ inches long and 27½ inches around. It surpassed the old mark by more than 26 pounds.

Detroit Groom Admits Doping

Detroit (AP)—Detroit Race Course stewards and the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau said Thursday a groom made a statement in which he said he administered a prohibited drug to a horse on which he had bet $100.

They said Ronald D. Brown of Laurel, Md., made the statements after tests on the horse, Comes the Groom, showed it had received phenylbutzone tablets prior to his victory in the first race Saturday.

The investigators said Brown told them he had given the horse tablets Friday and Saturday prior to its victory, paying $6.60, $4 and $3.40.

Top Action Slated On Friday Program

. . . DIVING AT 9:30 A.M.

Friday's competition in the National AAU Swimming and Diving Meet promises to be some of the most exciting in the four days of the tourney.

Last year the defending champion Santa Clara (Calif.) Swim Club picked up most of its points in the second day and almost completely dominated.

Bernie Wrightson of the Dick Smith Swim Gym will defend his three-meter diving title and Joel O'Connell of Santa Clara will be back as the diver to beat in the women's one-meter.

Diving preliminaries begin at 9:30 a.m. with finals set for 4:30 p.m.

Swimming events set Friday are men's and women's 200-meter freestyles, 400-meter individual medleys and 400-meter freestyle relays.

The men's 200-meter freestyle should be wide open with Santa Clara's Gary Ilman, the defending champ, not back. Don Schollander is an odds-on favorite in this event. It's his specialty.

Martha Randall of the Vesper Boat Club has a pending world record in the women's 200-meter freestyle. She's also defending champ and will be tough to beat.

Santa Clara's Dick Roth is back in the men's 400-meter individual medley and will attempt to retain the top honors he won in the event last year.

The women's 400-meter individual medley shapes up as a real dogfight. Mary Ellen Olcese, a pretty 15-year-old, won it last year, but it was close with Patty Caretto, Sharon Finneran and Cathy Ferguson close behind.

In the men's 400-meter free relay, you have to go with Santa Clara. The Californians have all relay members back except Ilman and he'll be replaced by a guy named Schollander.

It's the same story in the women's 400-meter free relay with Santa Clara again defending champ and missing only two of the four who copped top honors last year. Vesper Boat Club will be on their heels, however.

Swimming prelims start at 12:30 p.m. with finals at 7:30 p.m.

The accident was the second to hit the McKeever family in a year. Last winter, brother Mike McKeever was injured in a car accident and now lies helpless in a rest home with head injuries suffered in that accident.

McKeever was riding in a car driven by quarterback Roman Gabriel when it struck a parked vehicle in Costa Mesa, Calif.

Twins Pull Triple Play In 6-2 Win

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP)—The Minnesota Twins uncorked the first triple play in their six-year history Thursday, riding the four-hit pitching of Jim Grant to a 6-2 victory over California.

Second baseman Cesar Tovar batted in four of the runs.

The triumph gave the Twins a sweep of a four-game series and was Minnesota's sixth straight over the Angels after California ran up an 11-1 advantage the first half of the season.

The triple play came in the second inning after Norm Siebern doubled and Ed Kirkpatrick walked. Frank Malzone grounded to third baseman Rich Rollins, and the Twins got the triple play around the horn—Rollins to second baseman Cesar Tovar to first baseman Harmon Killebrew.

Seibern also singled off Grant in the fifth inning. Grant, now 10-13, turned in his ninth complete game in 29 starts.

Grant lost his shutout in the seventh when the Twins committed two errors and Jay Johnstone singled. The run was unearned. Grant got out of the inning by getting Malzone to hit into a double play.

A home run by Jim Fregosi in the ninth accounted for the Angels' second run.

Steen To Hold Line On Budget

State Game Commission Director Mel O. Steen, not widely known as a fiscal conservative, astonished pro-spending forces Thursday by announcing he intends to hold the line on his 1967-69 budget request.

Steen said the Legislature has been "generous" with him in the past. He said the state has achieved the level of spending it deserves for its recreation and sports.

"We're not going to ask for something we don't need," said Steen, known for his prolonged tussels with legislators over money requests.

"Our request will be approximately the same as the previous biennium," he said. "There will be no substantial change if our sources of revenue stay the same."

During the 1965-67 spending period the Game Commission utilized $17.7 million for its far-flung programs, ranging from tourist promotion to stocking lakes and streams.

Youths To Get Voice In Draft

. . . JOHNSON SAYS

Washington (UPI)—President Johnson said Thursday that young Americans would be asked to recommend changes in the "crazy-quilt" draft law.

In a speech to 14,000 students serving as summer interns in the federal government, Johnson said he had instructed his Commission on Selective Service "to consider the recommendations of those most directly concerned with these questions: students and younger citizens."

Johnson said that the 1948 draft law "in many ways . . . has become a crazy-quilt, applying to some but not to others. We have inherited that system—but we are not wedded to it."

'Fresh, Hard Questions'

For that reason, the President said, ". . . I have called for some fresh, hard questions about the draft:

"—Does the present system have flaws or inequities which should be corrected?

"—Can we make the draft fairer and more effective?

"—Can we—without harming national security—establish a practical system of non-military alternatives to the draft?"

Johnson's audience consisted of students studying government at first hand in summer jobs on Capitol Hill and throughout the executive branch. They will return to their campuses in about three weeks.

The President emphasized the need for qualified persons to serve in government posts and said next year he planned "to recommend to Congress a program to assist those who are training for public service."

Citizen-Soldier

"We must revive the ancient ideal of citizen-soldiers who answer their nation's call in time of peril," he said. "Today's citizen-soldier will join the Teacher Corps . . . he will enlist in the Peace Corps . . ."

Johnson also announced plans to continue the White House fellowships and said he would ask Congress to make the program permanent.

The fellowships are one-year paid government jobs for college graduates who work with the White House staff and the cabinet. The first 15 are now ending their fellowships and Johnson said a second group of 18 would begin work next month. Selection of a third group will be completed in May.

Crew Members Of Centennial Raft Welcomed Home By Gov. Morrison

The four crew members of Nebraska's Centennial raft were welcomed home Thursday by Gov. Frank Morrison from their 28-day, 1,680 mile trip from Omaha downstream to New Orleans.

Crewmen Tom Moderow, Richard Gallentine, Mark Hansen, all of Aurora, and Glenn Friendt of Lincoln presented the governor with the keys to various cities along the Mississippi River route.

Morrison also leafed through the beginning of a gigantic scrapbook the crew is assembling of their trip, including pictures, newspaper clippings and other stories.

The raft stopped overnight at seven major cities along the route and made special calls upon a dozen others.

The Centennial raft and its crew received considerable newspaper and television coverage.

Gov. Morrison commended the crew for their services as good-will ambassadors for Nebraska and its coming Centennial celebration.

The raft is being returned upstream by a Mississippi-Missouri River barge and is scheduled to arrive back in Lincoln for the Nebraska State Fair parade.

The four boys and their parents were dinner guests at the Governor's Mansion.

Local Councils Urged At Youth Conference

Using local youth councils as a means of helping Nebraska grow was the dominant theme at opening sessions here Thursday of the sixth annual 1966 Nebraska Conference of Youth.

The Nebraska Council of Youth and the Nebraska Committee for Children and Youth are co-sponsoring the three-day meeting at the Nebraska Center.

The Council of Youth, according to Randall Prier, University of Nebraska junior, invites high school and college age youth throughout the state to "provide them with information on Nebraska's problems and suggest means to solve those problems through local councils."

More than 300 Nebraska youth registered for the sessions.

Youth Speaks

"Youth Speaks," a forum presented by youth council officers during the opening session, emphasized youth responsibility and implications on local and state council levels.

Miss Susanne Plum, past chairman of the Nebraska Council of Youth, pointed out various phases of youth responsibility, declaring that youth should "act within the framework of the rules or change them.

"Then you will be acting with responsibility," she told the conference delegates.

Meeting the responsibility of youth within local councils results in "personal rewards to youth themselves," according to Jim Thalken, chairman of the Ogallala Council of Youth.

In addition, he said, local councils provide the power of teamwork, develop leadership through learning experiences, set standards for youth and promote adult-youth relationships.

Discussing the Nebraska Council of Youth, chairman John Hall explained that it exists to help local districts sponsor conferences, to offer information to councils, to serve as a device of continuity and coordination and to provide a united and more powerful voice in the state.

District meetings, general forums and education, recreation, youth standards and values of behavior, economic opportunities and youth council organization workshops are scheduled throughout the 1966 conference.

Under discussion in workshops will be evaluation of schools, development of comprehensive career-directed education, equalization of educational opportunities, awareness of political realities involved in better education, government educational programs, community centers, culture, safety, patriotism, apathy, interpersonal relationships, value clashes, community authority, state centennial, tourism, junior achievement, youth exodus, community improvement, state taxes and others.

Forum leaders will be education, Randall Prier of Lincoln; economic opportunities, Sharon Kyker of Lincoln; recreation, Tom Morgan of David City; and youth values and standards of behavior, Kathy Kuester of Norfolk.

Student 'Proud' Of Help To VC

Washington (UPI) — A young Stanford University student told the House Committee on Un-American Activities Thursday he would rather have his tongue torn out than testify about associates in an organization collecting blood and money for the Viet Cong.

Stuart McRae, 22 a native of Alburquerque, N.M., said he "proudly" helped organize the Stanford Medical Aid Committee. He said about $300 was rasied and 40 quarts of blood pledged for the "victims of American agression."

The slim blonde youth testified after two of the congressional committee's key witnesses failed to respond to their names—as they said they would when their lawyers walked out in protest Wednesday — and two others were excused because they had not hired new legal help.

Quietly Defiant

McCrae was quietly defiant throughout his brief testimony. He gave a Nazi-type salute when asked to raise his hand to take the oath, and read a statement castigating the committee for its current inquiry into groups organized to send aid to North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong supply movements.

The committee is considering legislation to make such activities a federal crime punishable by up to 20 years in prison and up to $20,000 fine.

Meanwhile Arthur Kinoy, an attorney for one of the "unfriendly" witnesses, went on trial in General Sessions Court for disorderly conduct. He was thrown out of the hearing room and arrested Wednesday when he refused to obey the chairman's orders to sit down.

At the committee hearing, for the first time in three days, there were no incidents. But police in large numbers were on hand.

The committee still had five subpoenaed winesses to call before winding up the investigative hearings. It was not known whether all or any would agree to testify without counsel.

All Pulled Out

All the lawyers who had been connected with the case pulled out Wednesday when Kinoy from the American Civil Liberties Union, was forcibly ejected from the hearing room for arguing with Chairman Joe Pool, D-Tex.

The witnesses who failed to show up were Dr. Allen Krebs and Walter Dorwin Teague III, both of New York city. They said Wednesday They would not respond to their subpoenaes because of the Kinoy incident. Two other New Yorkers had testified earlier in the week.

Steven Nadel of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Anatol Ben Anton, Berkely, Calif., were dismissed as uncooperative but their subpoenas were extended to Nov. 15.

McCrae, in refusing to talk about Anton, told the committee, "I will answer any question about myself." He was told he could refuse to answer by invoking the 5th amendment, but he still refused.

Youths To Get Voice In Draft

. . . JOHNSON SAYS

Washington (UPI)—President Johnson said Thursday that young Americans would be asked to recommend changes in the "crazy-quilt" draft law.

In a speech to 14,000 students serving as summer interns in the federal government, Johnson said he had instructed his Commission on Selective Service "to consider the recommendations of those most directly concerned with these questions: students and younger citizens."

Johnson said that the 1948 draft law "in many ways . . . has become a crazy-quilt, applying to some but not to others. We have inherited that system—but we are not wedded to it."

'Fresh, Hard Questions'

For that reason, the President said, ". . . I have called for some fresh, hard questions about the draft:

"—Does the present system have flaws or inequities which should be corrected?

"—Can we make the draft fairer and more effective?

"—Can we—without harming national security—establish a practical system of non-military alternatives to the draft?"

Johnson's audience consisted of students studying government at first hand in summer jobs on Capitol Hill and throughout the executive branch. They will return to their campuses in about three weeks.

The President emphasized the need for qualified persons to serve in government posts and said next year he planned "to recommend to Congress a program to assist those who are training for public service."

Citizen-Soldier

"We must revive the ancient ideal of citizen-soldiers who answer their nation's call in time of peril," he said. "Today's citizen-soldier will join the Teacher Corps . . . he will enlist in the Peace Corps . . ."

Johnson also announced plans to continue the White House fellowships and said he would ask Congress to make the program permanent.

The fellowships are one-year paid government jobs for college graduates who work with the White House staff and the cabinet. The first 15 are now ending their fellowships and Johnson said a second group of 18 would begin work next month. Selection of a third group will be completed in May.

Crew Members Of Centennial Raft Welcomed Home By Gov. Morrison

The four crew members of Nebraska's Centennial raft were welcomed home Thursday by Gov. Frank Morrison from their 28-day, 1,680 mile trip from Omaha downstream to New Orleans.

Crewmen Tom Moderow, Richard Gallentine, Mark Hansen, all of Aurora, and Glenn Friendt of Lincoln presented the governor with the keys to various cities along the Mississippi River route.

Morrison also leafed through the beginning of a gigantic scrapbook the crew is assembling of their trip, including pictures, newspaper clippings and other stories.

The raft stopped overnight at seven major cities along the route and made special calls upon a dozen others.

The Centennial raft and its crew received considerable newspaper and television coverage.

Gov. Morrison commended the crew for their services as good-will ambassadors for Nebraska and its coming Centennial celebration.

The raft is being returned upstream by a Mississippi-Missouri River barge and is scheduled to arrive back in Lincoln for the Nebraska State Fair parade.

The four boys and their parents were dinner guests at the Governor's Mansion.

Local Councils Urged At Youth Conference

Using local youth councils as a means of helping Nebraska grow was the dominant theme at opening sessions here Thursday of the sixth annual 1966 Nebraska Conference of Youth.

The Nebraska Council of Youth and the Nebraska Committee for Children and Youth are co-sponsoring the three-day meeting at the Nebraska Center.

The Council of Youth, according to Randall Prier, University of Nebraska junior, invites high school and college age youth throughout the state to "provide them with information on Nebraska's problems and suggest means to solve those problems through local councils."

More than 300 Nebraska youth registered for the sessions.

Youth Speaks

"Youth Speaks," a forum presented by youth council officers during the opening session, emphasized youth responsibility and implications on local and state council levels.

Miss Susanne Plum, past chairman of the Nebraska Council of Youth, pointed out various phases of youth responsibility, declaring that youth should "act within the framework of the rules or change them.

"Then you will be acting with responsibility," she told the conference delegates.

Meeting the responsibility of youth within local councils results in "personal rewards to youth themselves," according to Jim Thalken, chairman of the Ogallala Council of Youth.

In addition, he said, local councils provide the power of teamwork, develop leadership through learning experiences, set standards for youth and promote adult-youth relationships.

Discussing the Nebraska Council of Youth, chairman John Hall explained that it exists to help local districts sponsor conferences, to offer information to councils, to serve as a device of continuity and coordination and to provide a united and more powerful voice in the state.

District meetings, general forums and education, recreation, youth standards and values of behavior, economic opportunities and youth council organization workshops are scheduled throughout the 1966 conference.

Under discussion in workshops will be evaluation of schools, development of comprehensive career-directed education, equalization of educational opportunities, awareness of political realities involved in better education, government educational programs, community centers, culture, safety, patriotism, apathy, interpersonal relationships, value clashes, community authority, state centennial, tourism, junior achievement, youth exodus, community improvement, state taxes and others.

Forum leaders will be education, Randall Prier of Lincoln; economic opportunities, Sharon Kyker of Lincoln; recreation, Tom Morgan of David City; and youth values and standards of behavior, Kathy Kuester of Norfolk.

Gloom Deepens As Mart Dives

New York (AP)—Gloom deepened on Wall Street Thursday as the stock market took another dive-its fourth straight—amid worry about tightening credit and labor problems.

Trading picked up on the decline, volume totaling 7 million shares compared with 6.63 million Wednesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 8.85 to 810.74.

The market was mixed at the start and declined until the final hour when there was a slight recovery. An hour before the close the Dow industrials were down 11:58.

Losses of fractions to 1 or 2 points were scattered throughout the list of key stocks. As usual, the higher-priced glamor stocks took wider losses. The most sensational of these was a 15-point loss by Xerox which was the second most active stock.

Losers outnumbered gainers by nearly 6 to 1 as declines totaled 1,048 and advances 181 among the 1,438 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell .37 to 290.9, with industrials off .50, rails off 2.6 and utilities off 1.5,. The average and each of the components sank to new lows for the year

Sperry Rand was the most active stock, off ⅝ at 31⅝.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Preliminary Battle Won Against Inflation In U.S.

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

A preliminary skirmish against dangerous inflation in the United States has been won, but the fear of ultimate overheating of the national economy still lingers.

Rukeyser

So that investors and businessmen can be clear in their own planning, this paradox of uncertainty should be explored.

Inflation is a type of unhealthy expansion, engendered by governmental fiscal and monetary manipulation, and the fundamental objection to it is that it is not a permanent way of life. Inflation is a disease which breeds deflation. A sensible goal for policy makers is sustainable prosperity, and this must be predicated on self discipline and respect for the economic facts of life.

The hazard of a runaway inflation was met by a quieting down in the pace of general business toward mid-year. The change was exemplified in a decline in the sale of automobiles, continued setback in home building, and limited weakness in stock prices. In terms of totality results, the statistical indicators indicated that the abnormal rate of growth from mid-1965 to the end of the first quarter of 1966 was not sustained in the second quarter of the year. The overall result was a slower tempo of gains than in the previous nine months.

Doing All Right

So, in a sense, we are doing all right so far in the effort to restrain inflationary forces, and thus prevent the danger of an excessive boom followed by a bust.

A little background is needed. The upsurge in business and employment, starting in February 1961, has already outlasted the statistical average time for such interludes. In addition to economic forces making for good business, the Kennedy-Johnson administrations used heterodox soft monetary procedures to whip up a boom, including for a time cheap money (low interest rates) and a planned series of budgetary deficits, tax reduction and special incentives for business capital expenditures. For a time, when production had not yet reached capacity, the expansion was accompanied by increased output of goods and services.

The new and dangerous ingredient, from an economic standpoint, was superimposing on the existing peak consumer and business capital demand for goods, the abnormal needs of the rapidly expanding war effort in South Viet Nam.

This led to fears of overheating the national economy, and was accompanied by an increase in the rate of rise of wholesale prices.

Tightened Money

Thus, even the political economic planners became concerned, and the Federal Reserve, despite White House criticism, proceeded to tighten money. In addition, the sharp rise in Social Security and withholding taxes was a potential counter inflationary development.

This cautionary policy was reflected in a change of mood in stock speculation, and tight money is expected during the second half of this year to be reflected in a bigger drop in housing starts than the mild decline in the first half. Housing starts had been running close to the 1.5 million a year schedule. But now new negotiations must be made in a less receptive financial market for mortgage loans. Banking sources report that some savings and loan associations are making no new mortgage commitments and the entry of insurance company and bank funds into the mortgage market has slowed down.

In addition to the decline of available funds, the lending institutions have the alternative of being able to get the highest yield on good bonds in three decades. Those who are trying to measure the extent of the change in the cycle will watch the construction industry statistics closely. Building permits in April and May were down 9½% from the average for the first quarter of 1966, and insiders in the construction industry are anticipating a reduction of 15 to 20% in housing starts in the last half of this year.

But the letdown in construction and in automobiles may be more than offset by any further expansion of governmental expenditures growing out of the increasing war effort in Viet Nam. That is why, despite the temporary victory in the battle of inflation, analysts are still aware of the danger of a later flare up.

In the next phase of the war against inflation, it is desirable to respect fundamentals, and not seek escapism, as in the United Kingdom, through a wage and price freeze. A more sensible approach would be to induce people to increase savings and to demand that government compensate for higher war outlays through drastic economy in all other governmental expenditures.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Grain Mart Ends Easier To Weak

Chicago (AP)—The grain futures market developed some firmness at times Thursday but it was not very convincing to speculators and prices finished easier to weak for all contracts.

August and September soybeans, by far the broadest swingers, galloped over a range of 15 cents a bushel before finally falling into a slump with demand virtually exhausted. The September delivery closed 9 cents or more lower.

Prices moved rapidly with trade limited mainly to major commission firms and speculators.

Wheat was ½-1⅛ cents a bushel lower at the close, September $1.91⅛-¼, corn ¾-⅞ lower September $1.30¼, oats ¾-⅞ lower, September 76⅝-½ cents; rye ¼ to 1 cent lower, September $1.33½, soybeans 1⅛-9⅝ lower, August $3.85-87½.

Gloom Deepens As Mart Dives

New York (AP)—Gloom deepened on Wall Street Thursday as the stock market took another dive-its fourth straight—amid worry about tightening credit and labor problems.

Trading picked up on the decline, volume totaling 7 million shares compared with 6.63 million Wednesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 8.85 to 810.74.

The market was mixed at the start and declined until the final hour when there was a slight recovery. An hour before the close the Dow industrials were down 11:58.

Losses of fractions to 1 or 2 points were scattered throughout the list of key stocks. As usual, the higher-priced glamor stocks took wider losses. The most sensational of these was a 15-point loss by Xerox which was the second most active stock.

Losers outnumbered gainers by nearly 6 to 1 as declines totaled 1,048 and advances 181 among the 1,438 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell .37 to 290.9, with industrials off .50, rails off 2.6 and utilities off 1.5,. The average and each of the components sank to new lows for the year

Sperry Rand was the most active stock, off ⅝ at 31⅝.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks fell, three rose and Benguet was unchanged.

Fairchild Camera lost 5¼, Polaroid 4½ and Ampex 1⅛.

Eastman Kodak fell 2½ even though it raised its dividend.

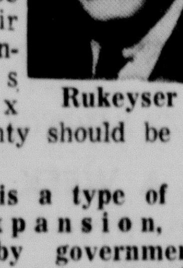
Prices declined on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 1.87 million shares compared with 1.88 million Wednesday.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds declined.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Preliminary Battle Won Against Inflation In U.S.

By Merryle S. Rukeyser



Rukeyser

A preliminary skirmish against dangerous inflation in the United States has been won, but the fear of ultimate overheating of the national economy still lingers.

So that investors and businessmen can be clear in their own planning, this paradox of uncertainty should be explored.

Inflation is a type of unhealthy expansion, engendered by governmental fiscal and monetary manipulation, and the fundamental objection to it is that it is not a permanent way of life. Inflation is a disease which breeds deflation. A sensible goal for policy makers is sustainable prosperity, and this must be predicated on self discipline and respect for the economic facts of life.

The hazard of a runaway inflation was met by a quieting down in the pace of general business toward midyear. The change was exemplified in a decline in the sale of automobiles, continued setback in home building, and limited weakness in stock prices. In terms of totality results, the statistical indicators indicated that the abnormal rate of growth from mid-1965 to the end of the first quarter of 1966 was not sustained in the second quarter of the year. The overall result was a slower tempo of gains than in the previous nine months.

Doing All Right

So, in a sense, we are doing all right so far in the effort to restrain inflationary forces, and thus prevent the danger of an excessive boom followed by a bust.

A little background is needed. The upsurge in business and employment, starting in February 1961, has already outlasted the statistical average time for such interludes. In addition to economic forces making for good business, the Kennedy-Johnson administrations used heterodox soft monetary procedures to whip up a boom, including for a time cheap money (low interest rates) and a planned series of budgetary deficits, tax reduction and special incentives for business capital expenditures. For a time, when production had not yet reached capacity, the expansion was accompanied by increased output of goods and services.

The new and dangerous ingredient, from an economic standpoint, was superimposing on the existing peak consumer and business capital demand for goods, the abnormal needs of the rapidly expanding war effort in South Viet Nam.

This led to fears of overheating the national economy, and was accompanied by an increase in the rate of rise of wholesale prices.

Tightened Money

Thus, even the political economic planners became concerned, and the Federal Reserve, despite White House criticism, proceeded to tighten money. In addition, the sharp rise in Social Security and withholding taxes was a potential counter inflationary development.

This cautionary policy was reflected in a change of mood in stock speculation, and tight money is expected during the second half of this year to be reflected in a bigger drop in housing starts than the mild decline in the first half. Housing starts had been running close to the 1.5 million a year schedule. But now new negotiations must be made in a less receptive financial market for mortgage loans. Banking sources report that some savings and loan associations are making no new mortgage commitments and the entry of insurance company and bank funds into the mortgage market has slowed down.

In addition to the decline of available funds, the lending institutions have the alternative of being able to get the highest yield on good bonds in three decades. Those who are trying to measure the extent of the change in the cycle will watch the construction industry statistics closely. Building permits in April and May were down 9½% from the average for the first quarter of 1966, and insiders in the construction industry are anticipating a reduction of 15 to 20% in housing starts in the last half of this year.

But the letdown in construction and in automobiles may be more than offset by any further expansion of governmental expenditures growing out of the increasing war effort in Viet Nam. That is why, despite the temporary victory in the battle of inflation, analysts are still aware of the danger of a later flare up.

In the next phase of the war against inflation, it is desirable to respect fundamentals, and not seek escapism, as in the United Kingdom, through a wage and price freeze. A more sensible approach would be to induce people to increase savings and to demand that government compensate for higher war outlays through drastic economy in all other governmental expenditures.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Grain Mart Ends Easier To Weak

Chicago (AP)—The grain futures market developed some firmness at times Thursday but it was not very convincing to speculators and prices finished easier to weak for all contracts.

August and September soybeans, by far the broadest swingers, galloped over a range of 15 cents a bushel before finally falling into a slump with demand virtually exhausted. The September delivery closed 9 cents or more lower.

Prices moved rapidly with trade limited mainly to major commission firms and speculators.

Wheat was ½-1⅞ cents a bushel lower at the close, September $1.91½-⅝; corn ⅛-⅝ lower September $1.50¼; oats ¼-⅞ lower, September 76⅜-½ cents; rye ¼ to 1 cent lower, September $1.33½; soybeams 1¼-9½ lower, August $3.85-87½.

Legislative Council Unit Sets Meet

. . . ON ROADS

The Legislative Council's executive board will meet in Lincoln next Monday to consider Sen. Jules Burbach's plea to summon all 49 senators to the Capital City to hear a briefing on the proposal to finance future highway construction through revenue bonds.

The meeting is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

Burbach will brief the five-member board on the proposal, suggested by his Legislative Council roads study committee.

The Crofton lawmaker will then ask the board to call a special meeting of the full Legislative Council, composed of all state senators.

If Burbach wins consent for such a meeting, he would then attempt to convince at least 29 senators that they should call a special session of the Legislature to place a proposed constitutional amendment permitting revenue bond financing of highway construction on the 1966 general election ballot.

Gov. Frank Morrison has previously declined to summon a special session, and the only recourse now left to Burbach's committee is to gain the assent of 29 senators.

No Computers To Be Used For Budgets

State Administrative Services Director Willard Townsend announced officially Thursday that 1967-69 biennium budget requests of the 65 departments and agencies would be hand-processed rather than computerized.

Townsend had indicated Thursday that such a decision was probable because of the "slippage" already experienced in the state's new budget and accounting system which uses an electronic computer.

Budget requests must be submitted by Sept. 15, though a 30-day extension can be granted by the governor if necessary.

However, Townsend indicated most departments except for one or two large ones, should be able to meet the deadline.

In addition to the workload of the various departments under the new accounting system, the director conceded his department would have difficulty getting the budgets programmed—put into coded information — for the computer within the remaining time.

However, he said he "hoped" to have the executive budget (the preliminary budget as recommended by the governor) and the Legislative Budget Committee's version processed by computer.

Post Office Bid Opening Delayed

Opening of bids for construction of a new $2.8 million Lincoln post office building, originally scheduled for Thursday, has been delayed one week.

Construction is scheduled to begin this fall .
